Codification riles council

At least two Romulus City Council members would like to shelve the controversial codification of city ordinances without further debate.

Councilmen Jimmy Raspberry and John Lewkowicz feel "an outsider is in the process of codifying what he feels should be the laws of this city and not what the people and this council have passed in the past."

The City Clerk's office has urged for the codification of the ordinances, to bring them together in one volume so that they may be readily available to all those who need them.

During last week's council proceeding, Raspberry and City Clerk Raymond Cantrell squared off on the issue with Cantrell defending the process. Cantrell has pointed out that "although there are some problems, they can be solved."

The codification is being compiled by an Ann Arbor firm. Council has asked to meet with the codifier, attorney Tom Andrews, but he has informed council that under the original bid, rules and regulations had been set forth in which such meetings, if held, there would be an additional fee charged.

This has irked councilman Raspberry. He also believes that "it appears the views of the majority of the City Council pursuant to their authority vested in them by the City Charter is being ignored by Mr. Andrews, the administration, the clerk's office, and the legal department because there have been radical changes made (of ordinances) during the codification process."

Raspberry said that those changes were numerous. He pointed out that in some cases ordinances adopted by Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids and Frankenmuth were inserted or substituted for the local ordinances.

"My suggestion would be that all of the ordinances on the books (See CODIFICATION Page 3)

Police hunt murder suspect

Van Buren Township police said today that they have no suspects in the multiple gunshot slaying of a 24-year-old township man whose bullet riddled body was discovered in his bedroom Sunday afternoon.

The victim, Wayne Clemons, of 45697 Ecorse Rd., was unemployed but once held a job as a bouncer. Clemons' body was discovered by a roommate.

"We have a lot of people to talk to," said Van Buren Police Chief Keller, "however, we do not at this time have a legitimate suspect."

"The victim was well known in this community and we don't want to speculate at this point except that we are talking to a lot of people," Chief Keller added.

Clemons held a score of odd jobs but was once employed as a bouncer at a local lounge. A muscular man who was a weightlifter, the victim appeared to be shot sometime before noon on Sunday, according to police.

Chief Keller said that the murder investigation will be handled by Detectives Joe Didia, Ken Laskaska, Ken Brooks and himself. Anyone with any information about the slaying is urged to contact the township police at 699-2003.

Twenty-four hours earlier, police were summoned to the Wayne County Fairgrounds' camp site to investigate the deaths of two elderly Detroit residents.

Dead are Leonard R. Salthers, 68, of Caldwell St., and Ruby M. Carson, 68, also of Detroit, East Canfield St.

Chief Keller said that the two deaths appear to be accidental.

"We're waiting for the report from the Wayne County Medical Examiner," Chief Keller added, "to confirm this. It appears that the two had succumbed to carbon monoxide fumes leaked from a faulty furnace or pilot light in their camper."

According to police, the two Detroiters were in a party of campers who pulled into the fairgrounds Friday. The victims were last seen alive about 8:30 p.m. when they had retreated to their camper.

When the two failed to join other campers the next morning, fellow campers summoned Van Buren firefighters who were at a demonstration nearby. The firefighters broke into the motor home and discovered the bodies of the victims. "There were no signs of foul play or trauma," Chief Keller said, "it is believed that the incident was totally accidental, but we have to wait for the toxicology report from medical's officer to close this case."

Huron school board votes to fund high school athletics

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(Special ANP Writer)

A bid to allow a parents' group to continue running the sports program in Huron schools highlighted the Board of Education meeting last week.

The Board voted 4-2 against the proposal. It followed with a 4-2 vote in favor of a motion that the Huron School District administer the sports program and all extra-curricular activities in the 1983-84 school year.

The vote marked the end of a two-year academic era during which Huron schools' sports program was financed, administered, and run by a group of parents in the district, the Huron Schools Athletic Association.

During the discussion, school Supt. Gary Jackson acknowledged the work of the association but cited the responsibility, professional and legal, of the school system in regard to the activities.

"They have done a good job as far as keeping the program going," Jackson commented later, "but the only problem is if there is a problem and I'm responsible then we should run the program."

In the upcoming academic year, the entire extracurricular activities program, not just sports, will be financed privately through a group called the Huron Schools Extracurricular Activities Fund. Money is being raised through candy sales, bingos, casino nights, and other social events.

The goal of the fund is in the neighborhood of $100,000 for the upcoming academic year.

In another matter, the board voted not to collect summer taxes in Ash and Sumpter Townships this year.

Supt. Jackson explained that after analyzing the tax collection prospect, it was determined that the cost to the school district for collecting those summer school taxes in Ash and Sumpter would be more than the interest on the borrowed money.

In other business, the board voted on three grievances concerning teacher seniority.

In the first instance, Martha Krieger, and her attorney R. Marie

Wheeler, challenged both the union and the management concerning a reduction of seniority by 2 1/2 years following which she was laid off.

The Board voted 5-1 to deny her grievance.

In the second instance, Nan Smith, challenged the board on a reduction of 1/2-year seniority to Rose Matusak.

The board voted 5-1 to deny her grievance.

In the third instance, the union challenged 1 1/2 years seniority granted to Byron Antcliff.

The Board voted 4-2 against the challenge, Antcliff maintaining his seniority.

All of the grievances stem from a re-evaluation of seniority lists done in August, 1982.

Pre-kindergarten round-up scheduled

School officials today announced that the pre-kindergarten screening and registration for Romulus schools will be conducted at Cory Elementary School on three dates, beginning May 12.

The school is located at Smith and South Wayne Rds. Parents may register their children on May 12, May 13 and May 16.

Parents are urged to contact the elementary schools that their child will be attending in September: Barth Elementary (942-0050); Cory Elementary (721-4757); Halecreek (942-0140); Hayti (721-6725); Merriman (941-6900) and Wick Elementary (326-4610).

Birth and shot records and other pertinent information should be brought to the screening. Free vision and hearing tests will be conducted. A nurse will be available to answer questions.

School survey has no surprises

Results of a survey compiled by a parents group reveal attitudes and concerns of citizens in Romulus about their public schools, and there were no surprises.

The telephone survey, conducted January 25 to February 5, 1983 by the Romulus Parents Area Council (R.P.A.C.), R.P.A.C. will use the results in determining priorities for future activities and as a source of information for accomplishing its goals.

The survey involved 24 persons conducting a total of 258 interviews with one adult from each household. Respondents randomly chosen resided on 166 (76%) of the city's 219 residential streets.

The 15 questions were compiled after studying several surveys taken in 1982 and the Romulus Community Schools' Assessment of Public Attitudes Towards Public Schools Poll conducted in 1973. Comparison of these surveys show that Romulus has changed tremendously in the past ten years, and the results are not typical when compared in most areas where the questions posed were similar enough for comparison.

The questions were developed to direct R.P.A.C. to better represent the community, to indicate how to increase public understanding for school problems and support for public schools, to learn the public's concerns about public schools, and the public's priorities in public education.

The biggest problem facing Romulus for 46% of the respondents was the lack of proper financial support. This compares with 22% in the Gallup Poll for 1982, with 29% in Wayne County's Project Outreach Poll of 1982, and with Romulus Community School's Assessment of Public Attitudes, 1973, 4%.

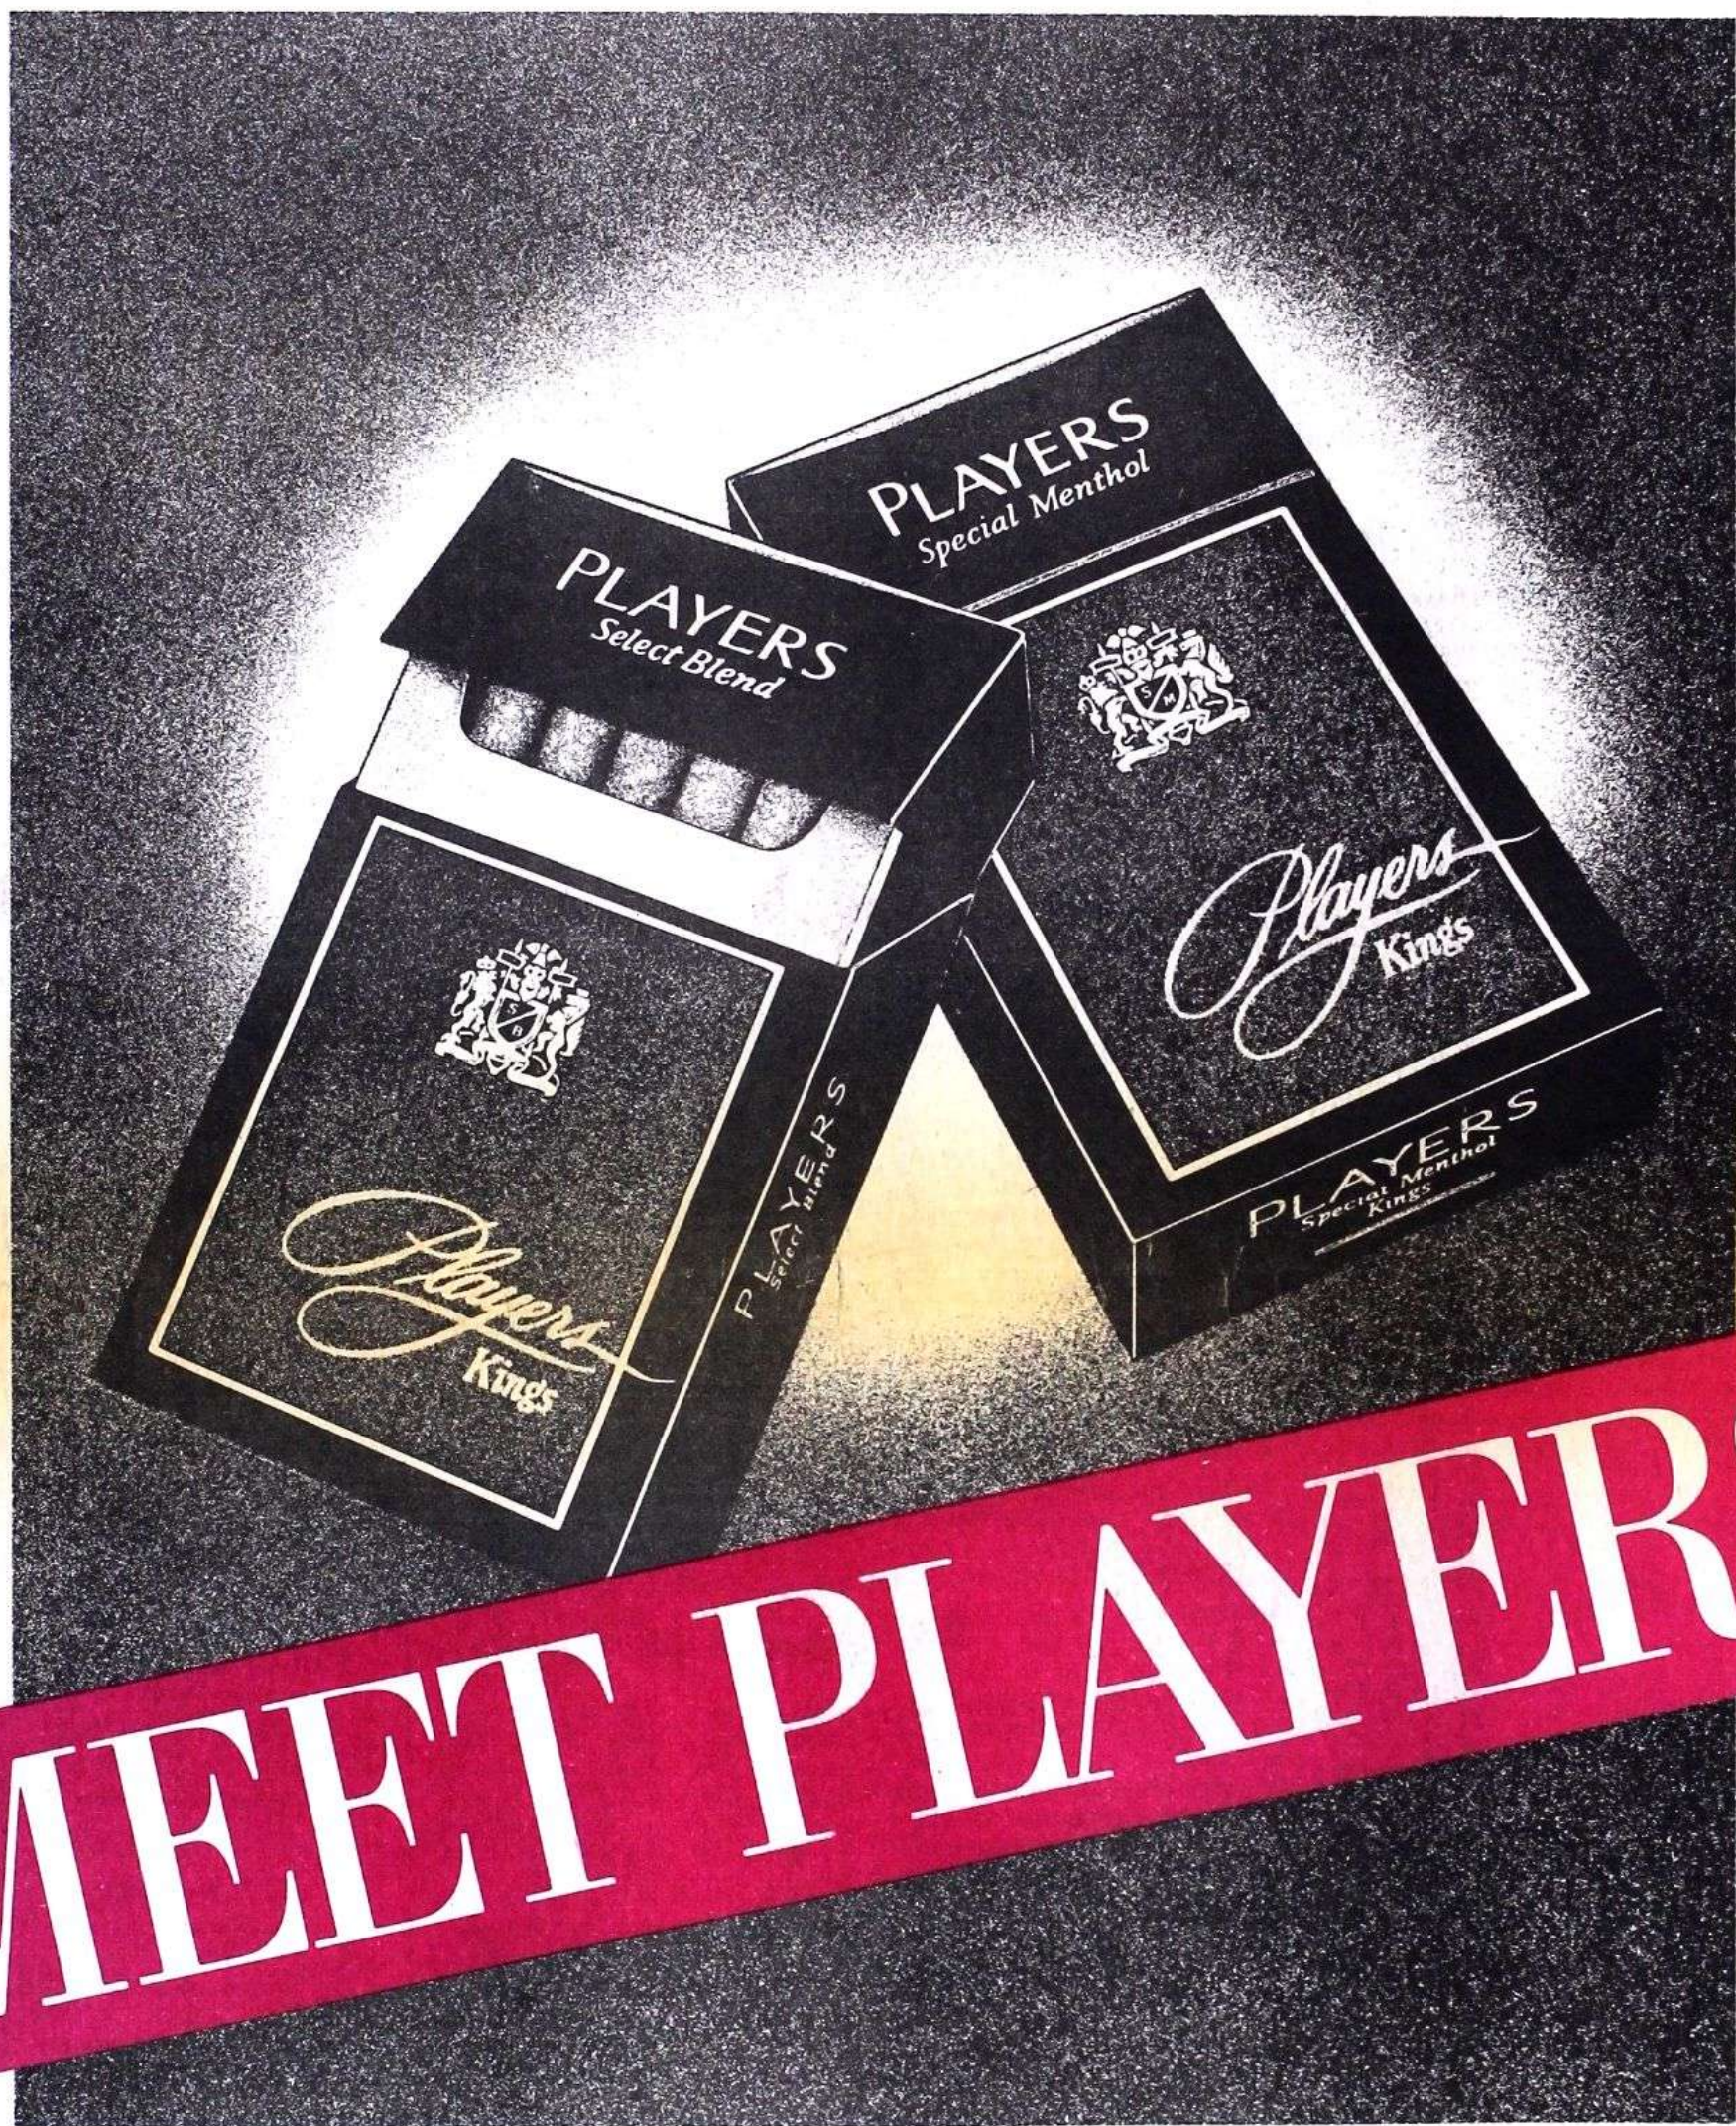

When asked about the method for funding public education, 22% designated sales tax, sales tax plus other sources — 24.4%; property tax was mentioned by 15.0% (plus other sources — 16.0%); and income tax by 11.0% (13.0%). The highest percentage fell into the category of Other — 38.0%. A significant number of respondents — 5% stated that the lottery should be the source of funding public education. The lottery now is partially designated to education, but is only a small part of the state's total budget for education.

The biggest problem for 16% was Curriculum/Standards, 11% for 1982 Gallup Poll and 3.7% for Wayne County's Project Outreach.

The Gallup Poll, 1982 listed discipline as the biggest problem — 22%; Wayne County's Poll — 10%; and Romulus Community Schools Assessment of Public Attitudes, 1973 — 20%; while it was mentioned by only 5% in the R.P.A.C. survey.

Other respondents stated that Romulus' biggest problem was related to the management of the district and problems with employees (See SURVEY Page 3) throughout the schools — 14%. Attitudes by all who are involved in the school system — 10%. Poor communication — 1%. 5% of the respondents had no comment.

The question, How can parents, schools, and the community work together to improve public schools in Romulus? elicited a response of 31% who felt that more community and parent involvement with schools would help. Another 11% suggested that the three groups should come together more frequently through meetings. Build better communication was the response from 26% of the respondents.

Comments included "Parents need more education and demonstrations of programs that children are involved in." "Schools try, but parents don't care anymore." "Too much change and confusion for students because of cuts in programs." "Need more communication in an adult manner." "Schools need to convey the message that 'you get what you pay for'." and "Competency is best realized at the elementary level."

This survey has given the school community a lot of food for thought. The comments indicate a desire for improved communication between the schools and the community, while the questions reveal that the community is poorly informed and too frequently uninformed about its schools. Regardless of who is at fault, the high number of no opinions show that the schools must make a better effort to improve communication with the public.

should be reviewed for the compliance with the statutes," Raspberry said, "and with the charter. Also, these ordinances should be reviewed as to whether or not they have been legally adopted and signatures legally attested to by the proper authorities."

"As far as I am concerned, we are further away from codification than we were at the beginning, and I feel that this city can save itself some money by junking it right now," Raspberry concluded.

Lewkowicz said that he felt the city charter was being altered and changed without the consent of the people.

"I just don't understand these people," Lewkowicz said. "Are they trying to eliminate the ordinances and the city charter which, in effect, governs every aspect of our government without the vote of the people?"

"I believe we should take a real close look at what's happening before the rest of this council adopts something that the people really don't want. Codification has definitely opened up a Pandora's box," he concluded.

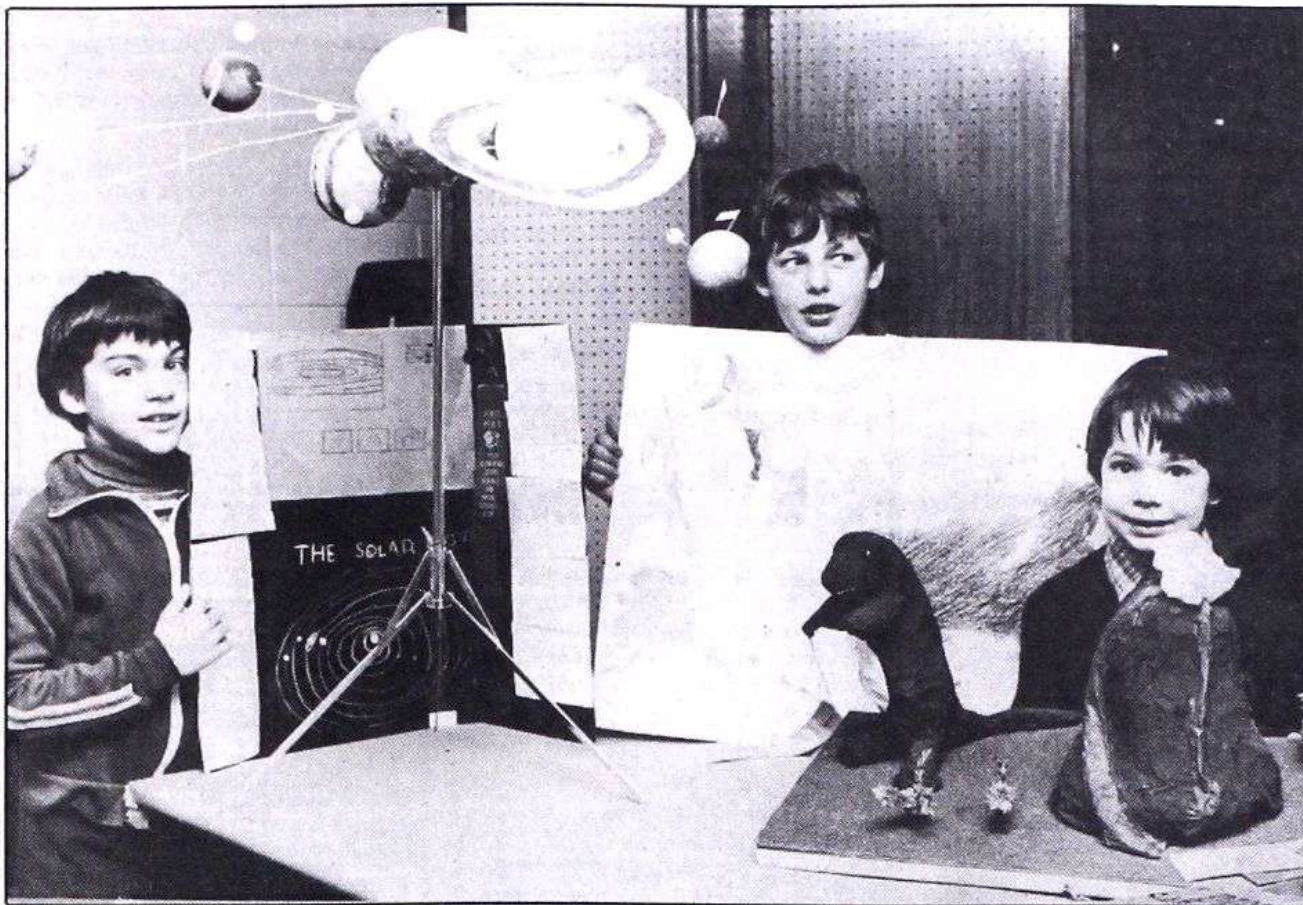

Battle for liquor license continues

Wayne city officials are seeking a quick dismissal of a Wayne restaurant owner's $2 million lawsuit prompted last year by the issuance of a Class C liquor license to the C.A. Muer Corp. for a new, downtown family tavern.

City Attorney John P. McKinney Tuesday said he has filed a motion in Wayne County Circuit Court for a summary judgment claiming Xhafer Elezi, the plaintiff, has failed to substantiate his charges that city officials had promised the license to him and that refusal to take such action constituted a case of racial discrimination. Judge Paul Teranes is scheduled to rule on the motion later this month.

Elezi, who owns The Red Apple Restaurant at 32711 Michigan Ave., instituted the litigation after the Wayne City Council granted the community's only remaining liquor permit to restaurateur Chuck Muer last Nov. 24 for a $1.35 million establishment to be located at the corner of Wayne Road and Michigan Avenue.

His attempts to stop construction of the facility were thwarted in January as Teranes denied his request for an injunction to prevent the City of Wayne and the Liquor Control Commission from proceeding with the license approval.

A scientific world

of the United States" earned first place honors for the fourth graders. Kenneth Karoleff studied the prehistoric era and submitted for consideration, "Dinosaurs", and he walked away with the first place prize for first graders. Prizes were awarded to each child whose entry was judged among the top five in their grades.

Boosters head for sidelines

Another chapter comes to end in Huron's athletic history

By JERRY DESHARNAIS
(ANP Special Writer)

The stadium was dimmed. June, 1981. The decision is made by the Huron Board of Education to drop extra-curricular activities.

July, 1981. Wayne Younglove's brainchild is born. The Huron Schools Athletic Association is organized, a nucleus of 16 people.

Their goal was to keep sports alive at Huron High — to run it and finance it.

That kind of initiative would normally be regarded as well-meaning but misguided.

They went to the school board with their bold proposal. They would raise the money, recruit the coaches, administer the program.

Perhaps even bolder, the Huron School Board let them — August, 1981.

Wayne Younglove's brainchild is a genius. Now to get him into uniform.

Money. Each student who chose to play varsity sports would pay a fee of $150 — in candy sales. If the student's parents decided to kick in the money instead, it was permitted.

Several dances were sponsored, among other things, to generate more revenue.

The Booster's Club contributed a hefty $12,000 for equipment and medical supplies.

And, of course, there would be gate receipts when the students began to play.

In the academic year 1981-82, almost a complete sports program was operated on a budget of $46-48,000.

Coaches. This was a prickly matter. The regular coaches had mostly been pink-slipped in the cutback. They were not pleased that the program would be operating without them; neither was their union.

But the Association went into their search, and got lucky — they found Jamie Hinojosa.

Jamie Hinojosa has an ingredient which perfectly matched the brainchild of Wayne Younglove. In fact, it was as if identical twins had suddenly rediscovered each other.

Perhaps the clue to that ingredient can be seen in an item on Jamie Hinojosa's resume: semi-pro football, Pontiac Arrows, 1976.

One can catch the significance of that if one realizes that in professional football huge salaries are paid to young men to get clobbered.

In semi-pro, they pay your car fare.

So, star-struck, love-smitten, the Association and Jamie Hinojosa agreed — he would coach the varsity football team.

His salary? $1,000.

Hinojosa then recruited two assistant coaches, and their salaries have yet to be disclosed. This we know, their pay came out of Hinojosa's $1,000.

The lights were turned on, and the rest is history. In the first season the Huron Chiefs played an eight-game non-league schedule against some good Class A teams and finished 3-5.

This raised many eyebrows on the football circuit.

But the football team did not fare as well this year because of injuries to four good men on the front line.

In 1982-83, just about every sport in varsity and junior varsity is being run, and the cost is higher, between $56-60,000.

And a chapter in Huron sports history is about to end.

At the school board meeting Monday, April 18, the decision was made to reinstate extra-curricular activities in the school program, effective July 1. The board has taken a page out of the association's book and will finance all the extra-curricular activities through private fund-raising.

The Association did make a bid at the meeting to continue their operation of the sports program but it was not accepted. Their reaction seemed to be one of disappointment mixed with relief.

John Cady, a member of the Association, commented later on the passing of the baton: "We in this Association really want to see this thing float. It would take a load off my hands and my wife Joan's."

And the hands of Wayne and Sue Younglove, Pat and Lois Schiller, Arnold and Janet Doede, Joyce Lambly, Julie and Lawrence Martin, Tess and Alan Richardson, Irene Scheffer, Tom Goddard, and Pat Okler. For two years they carried the Huron sports program.

The lights will remain on and the crowd will roar again in the fall — their efforts, if you read between the lines, recorded in a football stat book.

And the efforts of Jamie Hinojosa, 28, Huron High All-State football star class of '73, who returned to the grid of his youth and coached the spirit of Younglove's brainchild.

Postmaster warns that con artists making job promises

Medical fraud and work-at-home schemes are still high on the Postal Service's list of scams con-artists work through the mails, but Postmaster Patrick J. Tobin says high unemployment among industrial workers over the last couple of years has given swindlers a new and desperate audience.

Postmaster Tobin issued the warning in connection with Postal Consumer Protection Week, April 24-30.

"These dealers in disappointment continue to insist, without one shred of truth, that there are scads of good jobs available in Alaska," Tobin said.

The postmaster cited an advertisement for high-paying jobs in Alaska that resulted in hundreds of unemployed persons in southern California each sending $350 to cover the cost of an ocean trip to Alaska. "When they gathered at a dock in Los Angeles after sending in their money," Tobin explained, "they discovered there was no ship, that their money and the swindlers were gone, and that there were no jobs."

A newspaper ad in Detroit was aimed at the hundreds of laid-off auto workers. It said six workers were needed immediately, gave them a phone number to call, where they were given a date to report for work and told to send in five dollars. "Nobody was ever called to work," Tobin said, "and when this dealer in disappointment failed to respond, the Postal Service obtained a mail stop order and remittances were returned to senders."

An advertisement in Youngstown, Ohio newspaper promised detailed information on jobs with drilling crews for oil companies. "Until he signed a consent agreement with the Postal Service to stop the practice," Tobin said, "The operator sent by mail only general information on how to look for a job, not any help on actual jobs."

The "Inland Rivers Barge Lines," operating out of post office box at St. Louis, ran ads in newspapers in four states saying that deck hands, engineers and cooks were needed for immediate employment by barge companies. "For the $20 they mailed to the non-existent company those who responded got a list of boat and barge companies in the U.S.," Tobin said, "but they didn't get a job."

The postmaster said a postal inspector who investigated the case found that the barge industry was in the middle of a recession bordering on depression.

"If you weren't aware just how frantic some of the unemployed were to find work, before you heard of this case," the postmaster said, "you certainly were when you learned that one of the men who responded to the barge line scam came all the way to St. Louis from Oregon in hopes of landing a job."

Washington sent first letter by air

George Washington wrote the first letter ever to travel by air in the United States.

The letter was carried by a French balloonist, Jean-Pierre Blanchard, from Philadelphia to small clearing in the New Jersey woods.

The flight took place January 9, 1793. For days, newspapers and posters in Philadelphia (the nation's capital at that time) advertised America's first aerial flight.

Many important citizens had been invited to witness the event — Thomas Jefferson, Paul Revere, the French Ambassador and the Governor of Pennsylvania. Hundreds of other men, women and children, dressed in their finest clothes, were there.

Cannons were shot to announce the balloon's departure and a band played as people watched from rooftops, steeples and treetops. Horsemen prepared to follow the balloon's course.

When the balloon was ready to take off, George Washington handed Blanchard a letter which he had signed with a large flourish. The letter asked anyone who might meet the balloonist to help him.

The ropes holding the balloon were cast off and the balloon sailed up and away. Blanchard waved the flags of France and the United States.

His only passenger, a little black dog, peered over the edge of the basket. The puppy became frightened and curled up in a corner of the basket.

The craft sailed 15 miles and landed gently in a stump filled clearing. Blanchard stepped out as the dog ran to a puddle for a drink.

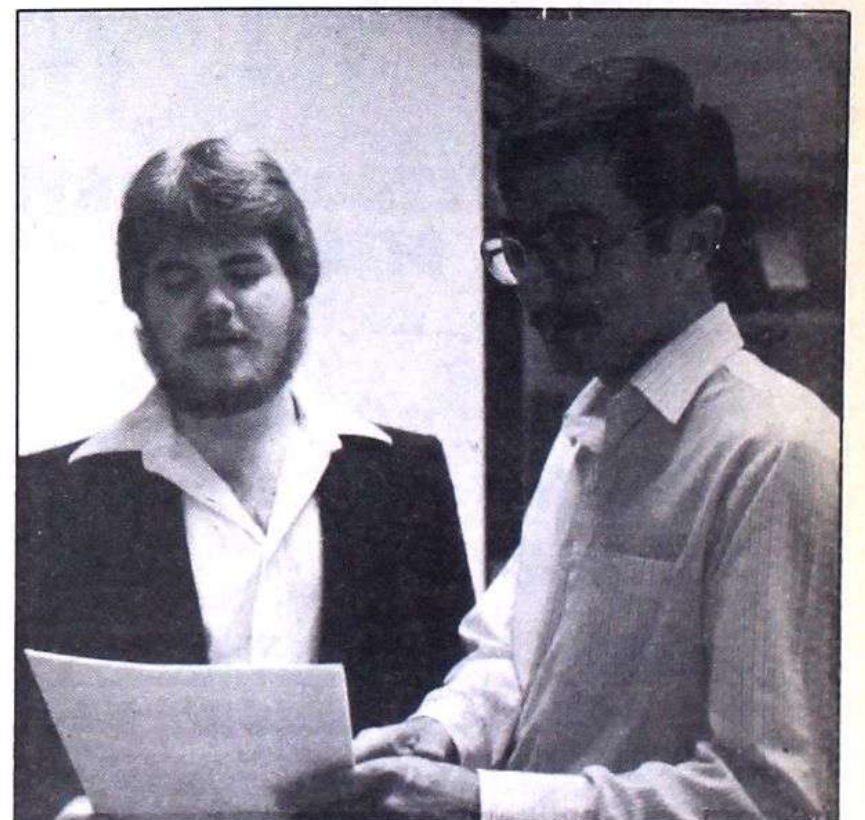

A farmer, afraid to approach the mysterious craft that had floated from the sky, peered from behind the trees. Blanchard showed him the letter from President Washington.

The farmer couldn't read but recognized the signature and called to a friend who was hiding behind the trees with a gun.

The friend read the letter aloud as many others came from behind trees to welcome the balloonist and the dog.

No one knows what became of the letter. However, a stone marker — which tells about Blanchard's famous journey — was placed in a field near Deptford, N.J.

Studies paid off

Kenneth Eccles (at left), a senior at Belleville High School, has been awarded the prestigious Michigan State University's Distinguished Freshman Scholarship, one of a score offered by MSU. He was a runner-up in the 1983 Alumni Distinguished Scholarship Competition and has a list of other scholastic accolades. With Eccles is Richard Dokas, science teacher at Belleville High, who are going over the terms of the special award for the four-year tuition scholarship.

Hard-earned reward

Belleville student receives MSU academic scholarship

Does it truly pay to study night after night?

Belleville High School senior, Ken Eccles, would certainly answer in the affirmative.

Due, perhaps, to the fact that the country has become acutely aware of the importance of math and science, universities now recognize and reward super scholars as well as super athletes.

Eccles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eccles of 9445 Van Buren, Belleville, has recently been offered a four year scholarship to Michigan State University on the strength of the fine academic record he has compiled at Belleville High School.

The road to academic success has not been easy for Ken, however, as he has spent countless hours pouring over his books doing far more than the required assignment.

Always eager and willing to learn, Ken attended summer school at Harvard University, thanks to a loan his father took out and the money he earned from a part-time job, where he studied Latin and calculus.

In addition to the scholarship offer from Michigan State, Ken has been accepted into the prestigious Interflex program at the University of Michigan where he might also receive scholarship monies.

Although the Belleville senior has not committed himself to date he will no doubt have several additional schools from which to choose.

As Eccles embarks on preparing for a career in medicine, he humbly attributes his academic success to his abiding faith in God, his loving parents and the dedicated teachers he has known.

It is comforting to know that hard work pays off and that nice guys finish first.

Computerized
McKelvey offers new accounting services

This generation has recognized the need for computers. The next will probably be as dependent upon them as man is on the car today.

And, realizing the need for computers in business and industry, Belleville-raised Jerry McKelvey has launched into a new business venture.

McKelvey, a 44-year-old former data processing auditor for Ford Motor Company, has opened McKelvey & Associates "accounting, computer services and management consulting firm" in the heart of Belleville.

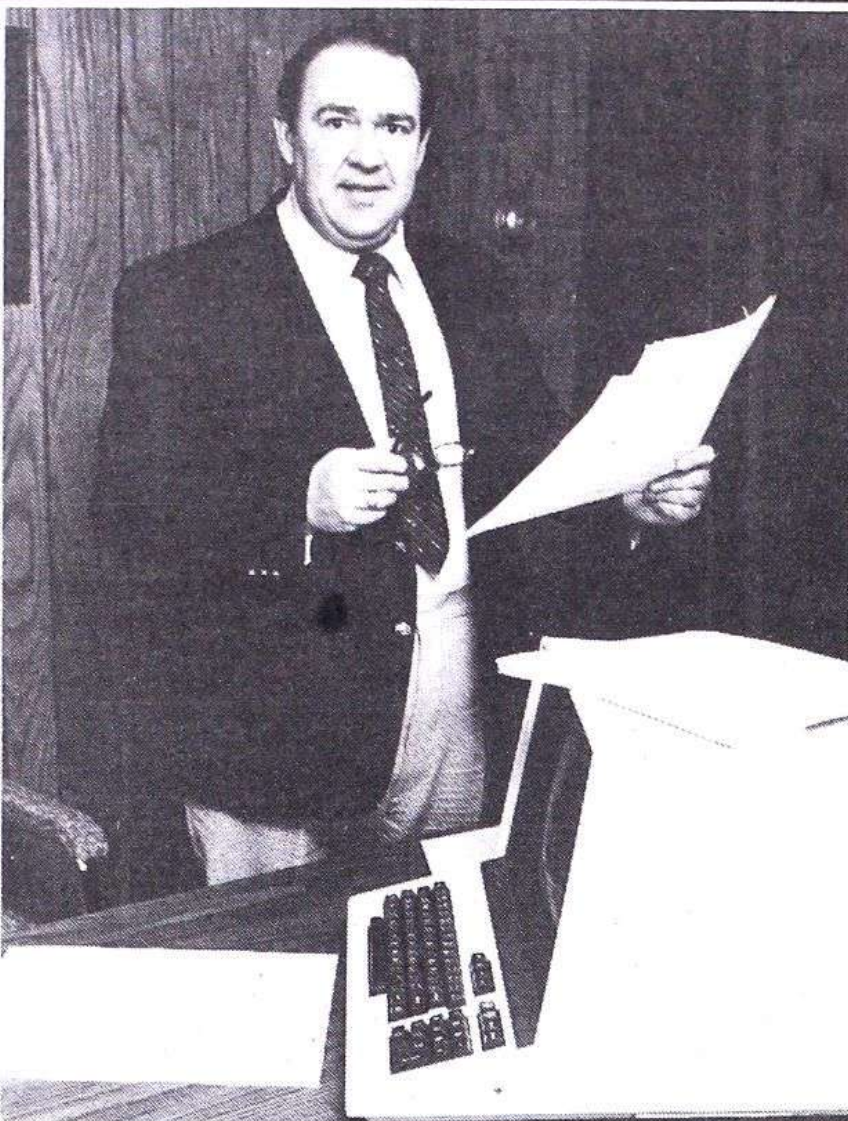

"We feel we can save businesses a lot of time, money and headaches by furnishing them with accurate and time-saving computer services," McKelvey pointed out. "Most businesses I find are faced with several obstacles after they purchase a computer."

"One of the first things these people realize is the additional costs over and above what they anticipated," McKelvey continued. "They purchase the computer, then they have to train someone to run it, and there's always the need to purchase more software or maybe they need a faster printer."

McKelvey said the average business today isn't computerized.

"They should take a very good look into what they're getting into before they leap," he offered.

"And there is also the other aspect," McKelvey continued. "Once a business gets a computer, they find that it always can't do what they initially purchased

New business venture

Belleville-raised Jerry McKelvey will put his vast knowledge and experience to work as a data processing auditor and computers into a new business venture whose goal is to help local and area businesses and industry it to do, therefore, they have to go out and hire somebody who does have the computer acuity to come in and train their people and, obviously, that's an additional cost."

McKelvey, who earned his degree in accounting at Eastern Michigan University, said that he and his associates are well trained to handle all accounting aspects and "we can do complete accounting services including seven different moduals of accounting that are handled electronically: payroll, payables, receivables, sales orders, inventory, general ledger - the whole shot."

Opened in April, McKelvey & Associates are located at 51 East Huron River Drive.

"You know the computer has a knack of being a high maintenance cost and sometimes bothersome piece of equipment," McKelvey added. "We believe we can do the job for people and businesses, and save them oney in the process."

Mack sees labor pact as key to WCGH survival

Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack (D-11th District) said, today, that he was "very happy" with the announcement of a labor contract agreement negotiated by the County Executive's Office and AFSCME.

"Without this contract," Mack emphasized, "it is likely Wayne County General Hospital would be forced to close, thus leaving Western Wayne County communities without adequate medical facilities."

Mack added: "It is believed this agreement will open the door for further attempts by the county to negotiate concessions — as pertaining to COLA — from other employee locals."

The proposed contract, yet to be ratified by union rank and file, would require employees of Local 1659 to give up COLA.

In return, the county has agreed to roll the $2.08 COLA rate into the hourly wage of each employee over the next four years; refund employees' share of their pension contributions, approximately $700 per year, over a five year period; allow employees with over 20 year's seniority to retire with a pension; and will pay the first quarter COLA, due next week, amounting to $1,000 per employee. It would be the last COLA check paid.

In addition, County Executive William Lucas has agreed to keep the county hospital open for another three years leaving open the possibility of either selling or leasing it to private industry if the facility's current deficit is not eliminated.

Union leaders have also agreed to the creation of a new entry-level job classification at substantially lower starting salaries. The pact, if ratified, will take effect May 1 and, according to the County Executive's office, will save some $25 million in pay and benefits.

SEV to cost county $5 million

A Wayne County Bureau of Taxation report being filed with the state May 2 indicates the county's projected equalized valuation for 1983 will be about $18,000,000,000, some $700,000,000 less than previous years, and a loss of nearly $5 million to the county.

According to George McEachran, Deputy Director of the Bureau, the communities of Hamtramck, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Inkster, Redford Township, Trenton, Wyandotte and Lincoln Park, which attended the county equalization meetings, have all agreed with the Bureau's recommendations and that no complaints have been registered by other cities and townships within the county.

Only 3 citizens show up for county's first out-county talks

The Wayne County Commission's debut meeting in the out-county districts Tuesday was not a big drawing card. Three citizens turned out to watch county government in action at Dearborn's Henry Ford Centennial Library.

This meeting was the first of eight required by the new county charter.

During the hour-and-a-half meeting session, the legislators agreed to postpone action on appointing a representative to the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and to seek ways to negotiate separately with various county employee bargaining units; approved a Juvenile Justice grant application for delinquency prevention and concurred with the Human Resources Committee recommendation concerning the Annual Child Care Fund Plan and Budget.

"Although not specifically scheduled, the seven remaining commission meetings will be conducted in the evening, hopefully once a month, at four locations within Detroit and three out-county," Commission Chairman William G. Su-zore said.

The three remaining out-county sessions are planned for Livonia; the Wayne County Community Center, Annapolis and Howe Roads; and either Grosse Pointe or Harper Woods.

Detroit's meetings are scheduled at the Student Center Auditorium on the University of Detroit Campus; Butzel Family Center at 7737 Kercheval; Northwest Family Center on Meyers Road; and at the Wayne County Community College at Conners and I-94 Expressway.

Wick teachers
host workshop
on good foods

It'll be Wick Elementary School teachers' turn to host "Food . . . Your Choice Nutrition Workshop" in Romulus between the hours of 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. on May 25.
The school is located at 36900 Wick Rd.
The local educators will have an opportunity to discover classroom teaching of good eating habits can be exciting and appealing to their students.
Making wise food choices is a learned skill which should be taught early. The solid foundation will be a benefit to the student's future good health and human performance.
Through the Dairy Council of Michigan's workshop, teachers will be given innovative ideas and activities which emphasize the Four Food Groups as the guide to good eating.
The nutrition concepts can be taught through-out the school's curriculum by incorporating them into already existing courses such as math, reading, social studies, writing, art and health.
The families also reap benefits as the student carries home the current nutrition information.
If your group is interested in scheduling a similar workshop, please contact: Lillian Wyatt, Dairy Council of Michigan, Birmingham.

Tobi wins district spelling bee, again

By PAT RICHARDS
(Special to ANP)

Taking a lot of deep, deep breaths, 13 nervous students in grades five through eight representing five school districts competed in the Lawrence Institute of Technology/Detroit News Area Spelling Bee, at Savage Elementary School in the Van Buren School District.

Elwell's sixth grader, Tobi Russel, captured top honors for her second consecutive year.

Last year, Tobi downed 31 challengers from eight Van Buren elementary schools to become the district champion.

Quirk's sixth grader, Karen Renee Haley, is this year's runner-up.

"I would like to congratulate all of you, and you are all winners," was the friendly greeting to the contestants by Savage principal, Bud Stapleton.

The pronouncer, Paul Smith, a 5th grade teacher at Savage, let the contestants introduce themselves: Roger Marmion, 6th grade, Renton Junior High, Huron School District; Erin McEachran, 7th grade, St. John's Lutheran in New Boston; Lisa Aloisio, 8th grade, St. Aloysius, Romulus Schools; Donald Deel, 6th grade, Edmondson Middle School, Willow Run; Barbara Peoples, 6th grade, Eureka Dale Elementary, and Yvonne Necinski, 8th grade, Hoover Junior High, both in the Taylor School District.

The Van Buren School District boasted seven elementary entrants: Tobi Russel, 6th grade, Elwell; Jerry Bitner, 6th grade, Haggerty; Karen Haley, 6th grade, Quirk; Jamie Moore, 5th grade, Savage; and Shannon Frances Marie Moore, Tyler.

The contest was held before a quiet and polite audience consisting mainly of parents and principals.

Bill and Jane Haley, 47148 Ayres, Belleville, are "very proud" of their daughter, Karen, who is this year's runner-up in the exciting spell-down.

Repeat performance

Tobi is the daughter of Clarence and Sharron Russell, 45223 Wear Road, Belleville. Her father exclaimed, "I can't believe it. After two straight years, I'm more nervous this year than last year."

Tobi spoke into the microphone, "I would just like to thank you all very much, and all the kids that participated are all winners." Her voice cracked with grateful emotion as she embraced her mother, Sharron (pronounced Shar' ron), a former Detroit public school teacher.

Tears flowed down the cheeks of both mother and daughter. Mrs. Russel spoke softly and lovingly, "She has worked so hard. Tobi has incredible intensity."

Bill Chizmar, Elwell's principal, also spoke fondly of Tobi, "She was a lady before her time. She's such a gracious winner and a gracious loser. Tobi is a two-time grand champion winner at our annual science fair. She has won four first place gold trophies and four second place silver trophies."

Chizmar and Mrs. Russel shared this story: In the 3rd grade, Tobi received an S in art. The teacher had said, "What's wrong with an S? An S is satisfactory." Mrs. Russel then replied, "You'll just have to understand that mediocrity is not accepted in our household." She added, "I don't want Tobi to feel like she's in an educational pressure cooker and expected to excel and always come out on top, but always to do her best."

Russell laughed, "You tell Tobi to go relax, and she'll read a book."

Tobi will now compete in the state contest at L.I.T. in Southfield May 3.

Tobi says she is "relieved" that this contest is over, adding, "I'm a little more nervous because I've never been to state before. The ride may very well be over, but I'm going to give it all I've got."

The judges, Theresa Green, Rawsonville Elementary principal, Bruce J. Maslin, Supervisor of Compensatory Education and Phyllis Greer, Supervisor of Instructional Materials Center & Special Projects, each congratulated Tobi. The judges are from the Van Buren School District.

Glimpses of 1880's

Printer's personal papers reveal century-old events

An antique scrapbook of printing samples used by the 1890's forerunner of the present day BELLEVILLE ENTERPRISE has been donated to the Van Buren Township Historical Collection by Dean Mumm, owner of Mumm Printing of W. Seven Mile in Detroit.

The samples, believed to be printed during the period 1880-1895, were found among the personal papers of the father of Mr. Mumm, who worked for the paper in the 1940's.

Included among the samples are advertising flyers of the Excelsior Wash Bench Company of Belleville, located in Belleville in the 1880's, Receipts and Checks for Cleary Business College of Ypsilanti, drawn on the bygone Queen City Bank, and stationary and letterhead bills for the Moon and Cady Hardware store, forerunner of the present day Hamilton Hardware on Main Street. There are papers about Belleville High School graduates during the period 1882-1893.

Another specialty of the job shop was cardlike "ball" invitations such as "The Last Ball of The Season" held at the Music Hall in Belleville on Friday Evening April 23, 1886 — music provided by the Belleville Cornet Band.

Dave Clark is Air Force graduate

Airman David C. Clark Jr., son of David C. and Sharon R. Clark of 28711 Halecreek, Romulus, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force fuels specialist course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

Graduates of the course learned procedures for receiving, storing and issuing petroleum products, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Clark will now serve at Torrejon Air Base, Spain, with the 401st Supply Squadron.

He is a 1981 graduate of Romulus High School.

Invitations to several masquerade balls held at the Belleville Grange Hall circa 1884 are also included, as are wedding invitations to several weddings.

Although VanBuren Township has no formal display site for donated articles, Township Historian Cath Horste frequently displays items upon request to local service groups and schools.

Long range planning for the itinerant collection include the conversion of the old Van Buren Township Hall on Main Street in Belleville to a museum.

A black and white Van Buren Township Police Department shoulder patch has also recently been added to the collection — a gift of Leonard Keller, Van Buren Township Chief of Police.

Chief Keller believes this patch to be the first used by the Township Constables when they began the road patrol in the 1950's.

Views On Dental Health

By KENNETH A. FOX, D.D.S.

SPARE DENTURE TO THE RESCUE

Any denture wearer worries about going in public without them due to damage or loss. This is understandable — but preventable. If you wear dentures and care about your ability to eat or appearance in public, it makes a lot of sense to always have a spare set handy just in case your number one set breaks or is damaged (or lost in the lake or ocean while swimming). Your dentist can have an exact duplicate of your present denture made in a short amount of time and at a very reasonable cost. (Probably for less than half of what your original set cost). You can take it with you when you travel (just like it makes sense to carry an extra pair of glasses) and carry it conveniently in a small container in your attache case, pocketbook or keep it wherever your imagination dictates. It will also come in handy if your original denture needs repair.

Just think about this: If you have a spare denture, you might not miss a dinner with your dentist. That's a reward — especially if your dentist is paying for dinner.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of KENNETH A. FOX, D.D.S., 9840 Haggerty Rd., Belleville. Phone 697-4400.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

By John Brimble

Exotic go-along with pork roast: papaya wedges, sautéed in butter. Sprinkle with lime juice.

If rice burns the bottom — horrors! — place a heel of bread on the rice to absorb the smell, and re-cover the pot for a few minutes. Of course, you DON'T scrape the pot when you serve.

Lovely nibble at cocktail time — slice zucchini into 1/2-inch rounds, spread with a half-and-half mixture of mayonnaise and parmesan cheese, seasoned with basil. Broil 5 inches from the heat about half a minute, until brown. Snacks are low-calorie, and you can even make them in advance.

If asparagus looks a little limp, refresh it by standing it in cold water (like a bunch of flowers) for half an hour before cooking.

Self-rising flour is the easy way to home baking. For instance, to 1 1/2 cups of self-rising flour, add a pint of melted ice cream, any flavor. Bake 20-25 minutes at 350°. Result: muffins.

A community project

Romulus students to hear 'Hansel and Gretel' opera

After months of raising funds, the Romulus Parents Area Council presented a proposal for a Spring Musicales to the Board of Education at the April 18 meeting and it was accepted, clearing the way for the children's opera "Hansel and Gretel" to be performed by the Piccolo Opera Company.

The opera will be presented to children in grades two through five. The performance is the highlight of a project incorporating the language arts and communication skills.

Judy James, a teacher in Romulus, is adapting a study guide published by the Michigan Opera Company for the students. The study guide will assist teachers in developing the pre- and post-performance activities.

Local children will also perform in the opera in a chorus of Bavarian children and a ballet scene as angels.

The project was originally created for all of the 3,000 students in Romulus elementary schools. When sufficient funds were not available for the four performances necessary to present to all of the children, a cutback in the number to be involved had to be made.

"While it is regrettable that some students will be deprived of this experience, we feel fortunate to be able to schedule the sixteen hundred students who will be involved," said Alice Kesner, chairperson of the Fine Arts Committee.

"The business and service organizations and individuals who contributed toward the Spring Musicales can be certain their dollars are well-spent. It is too seldom that these children have an opportunity to be involved in such a worthwhile cultural and educational program," Mrs. Kesner added.

While RPAC has served as developer, fund-raiser, and coordinator, the most important role will be played by the teachers. They will utilize the program by making it part of the curriculum and capitalize on the excitement it generates to involve the students in other learning activities.

The program helps fulfill the goals of RPAC in many ways. "It brings the community together for a common cause and unites it in creating the program, stimulates the growth of children, improves basic skills and the relationship between parents, teachers, and administrators, challenges teachers and administrators to improve their effectiveness in meeting children's needs, and utilizes the community's resources to help cope with budget cuts," a RPA spokesperson said.

They're all champs

Everyone knows if you are poor at spelling, it helps if you also have poor handwriting. These students do not have to worry because they have proved they are fantastic spellers. Each is a champion speller proudly representing his school at the Lawrence Institute of Technology/Detroit News Area Spelling Bee held at Tyler Elementary School in the Van Buren Public School District on April 21. Seated from left: Jamie Moore, 5th grade, Rawsonville; Jerry Bitner, 6th grade, Haggerty; Michael Gentz, 5th grade, Savage; Barbara Peoples, 6th grade, Eureka; Donald Deel, 6th grade, Edmonson Middle School of the Willow Run School District; and Kelly Glasser, 6th grade, Edgemont. Standing from left: Paul Smith, pronouncer, 5th grade teacher, Savage; champion Tobl Russell, 6th grade, Elwell; runner-up Karen Haley, 6th grade, Quirk; Yvonne Nicinski, 8th grade, Hoover Junior High in Taylor; Erin McEachran, 7th grade, St. John's Lutheran in New Boston; Lisa Aloisio, 8th grade, St. Aloysius, Romulus; Shannon Frances, Marie Moore, 6th grade, Tyler; and Roger Marmion, 6th grade, Renton Junior High in the Huron School District. Rawsonville, Haggerty, Savage, Edgemont, Elwell, Quirk and Tyler in the Van Buren School District. Tobl will compete at the state level at L.I.T. in Southfield May 3. See story on Page A-6.

dent of Detroit Pure Milk Company. During the school year, over 500 Achievers from Southeastern Michigan have attended Economic Club meetings as guests of local executives and companies.

For 'Gifted Child Week'

Merriman SPACE program is fueling plenty of interest

"Today's Best Minds, Tomorrow's Best Solutions," that's the theme for "Gifted Child Week" — April 24-30.

And, the "SPACE" students at Merriman School in Romulus attended a live performance at the Detroit Institute of Arts entitled "Video Synchronies."

The field trip was the culmination of a long term classroom unit on FACES.

The performance was a fast paced, light comic musical review. "It was a delightful experience for all of the 60 students involved," a school official said.

The interest for the students in SPACE does not end here.

Did you know Gifted Child Week is April 24-30?

This is an ideal opportunity to promote awareness of gifted and talented students and their needs. There are several activities planned.

1 — Program visitations: each student may invite a friend to spend the day with them at SPACE.

2 — Parent workshop: parents of students in the program attended a mini-workshop on April 20 at Merriman School. Guest speaker for this event was Diane Bencik, a parent and teacher. Diane teaches in Plymouth, at the Stepping Stones School, a private school for the gifted. She has children of her own attending the Gifted Program in Livonia.

3 — Posters at local schools: students designed posters and displayed them at their school. Specific details on all of the activities are available at your local elementary school.

On LIT's dean's list

Belleville's Michael Falatine and Inkster's Robert Ciborowski were named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the winter day term at Lawrence Institute of Technology.

To be named to the honor roll a student must maintain at least a 3.5 grade point average and be a full-time student.

for the weekend

Southern brunch

Bring the tradition of a Southern brunch to your weekend activities. In fact, make it a special occasion by inviting relatives or close family friends. For your menu, include Southern family favorites such as baked cheese grits or fried apples, and treat your guests to a new and easy recipe prepared in aluminum foil ware.

Sausage-Apple Mini Rolls are a winner for this brunch menu. The flavor of sausage, cheese, apples, brown sugar and spices rolled up in convenient refrigerator biscuits is a Southern combination that will please young and old. For simplicity and easy cleanup, place the individual rolls in an aluminum foil ware pie pan and bake to golden brown perfection. Just set up your brunch buffet style and the mouth watering aroma will bring everyone to the table. After they finish the first mini-roll, you can bet they'll be back for more.

Sausage-Apple Mini Rolls is a sample of the easy convenient recipes found in "Easy Gourmet," a "free" brochure of recipes developed by home economists in The Reynolds Wrap Kitchens. To receive your copy of "Easy Gourmet," send your name, address and zip code to the following address; Redi-Pan - "Easy Gourmet," Department FE-3, Richmond, VA 23261.

SAUSAGE-APPLE MINI ROLLS

1 can (10 oz.) refrigerated biscuits ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ pound pork sausage ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Colby cheese ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 cup finely chopped apple

Preheat oven to 400°F. Place half a can of biscuits on floured surface. With floured hands flatten biscuits and pinch seams together. Roll out to form 7x10-inch rectangle. Repeat with remaining biscuits. Cook and finely crumble sausage; drain on paper towels. Combine cooked sausage and remaining ingredients. Sprinkle half of sausage mixture evenly over each rectangle of dough. Starting at 10-inch side, roll up dough. Pinch together seams. Cut each roll into 10 slices. Place in 2 lightly greased Reynolds Redi-Pan Pie Pans. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until golden brown. Makes: 20 rolls.

Galaxy, Astral Lodges fete Patke

A party honoring John Patke, P.G. of Galaxy Oddfellow Lodge 384 of Belleville and Nankin Lodge 396 of Wayne, was held April 9 at the Van Buren Township Hall. The event marked his appointment as Grand Herald of the Grand Lodge of Michigan.

Brother Ralph Smith, secretary of the Grand Lodge of Michigan, was toastmaster and introduced the honored guests: Grand Master Floyd McConnel of Michigan and his past and present officers; Sister Gracee Nurkkala, Assembly vice-president, and her past and present officers as well as officers of other Branches of the Order.

Some 150 guests were on hand to see Brother John initiated into his new officer. Following a steak dinner, greetings were given from all Branches of the Order.

Entertainment was furnished by the honoree's two daughters and their husbands who sang several gospel hymns. Arlene LaCroix of Garden City Lodge 522 brought her electric organ to the party and played numbers for a song fest.

The party was sponsored by Galaxy Lodge 384 and Astral Rebekah Lodge 250, both of Belleville, and Nankin Lodge 396 and Collins Rebekah Lodge 325, both of Wayne.

potpourri

By Lee Smith
Suburban Living Editor

How'd you like to hear something nice for a change? Now I realize (from your comments) that you like the columns where you can more-or-less identify with the gripes and complaints. But as a refreshing detour, let's go the "lifter-upper" route this week, okay?

About six months ago (practically to the day) "potpourri" sang the praises of folks in Walnut Ridge, Arkansas — a half dozen of 'em — who cared enough about our car problems to get us back on the road to Michigan. In it I quoted one of the group who was responding to my amazement at their concern: "Down here, when y'all knock on our door, we say, 'Y'all come on in and what can we do for ya?' Up there (North) you knock on a door and they say 'What the hell do you want!'"

W-e-l-l, all you Michiganians who either nodded in agreement or took umbrage at the remark, there's good news to spread. We aren't all like that and I can point with satisfaction to two young people in Lenawee County (on the Tecumseh mailing route in fact) who went out of their way to prove that Michigan people, too, still care about one another.

With Number Two Daughter's wedding approaching much too swiftly, I was off on another of my scheduled pursuits, heading for Ann Arbor, when (about two miles from home) I heard this funny, tinny sound emanating from the rear of the Buick. Dang! Was I about to lose a hub-cap, I wondered, until I remembered they were locked — practically cemented — in place.

Pulling off onto a convenient sidewalk and getting out to check, I found (what I thought to be) the tailpipe dragging. Double dang! What do I do now, I wondered, as I lifted the thing up and down with the toe of my shoe (not knowing whether those things get hot or not.)

As you can tell, I know about as much about motor vehicles as I do about submarines. Accelerator, clutch, brake, yes, — radio, heater, air, uh-huh — glove compartment, trunk, yup! I do know how to check the oil and pump my own gas but when it comes to anything below the body or under the hood (other than said oil stick) D-U-M-B is the perfect 4-letter word for yours truly

As I prepared to return home, a motorcyclist rounded the corner, looked at me and kept on going. But — as I made the circle turn, a young woman came running out of her house, donning a jacket at the same time and waving at me to stop. "Pull over in my drive," she said, "and we'll take a look at that thing." I could hardly believe my ears.

As I alighted, she remarked that we'd probably have to tie the pipe somehow since, she continued, it would do too much damage to drive with it dragging. (I'd been prepared to do just that!) Then she proceeded to get down on her back and under the car to check the situation. (I was flabbergasted!)

As she rose, the motorcyclist reappeared and asked, "Do you have any wire? If not, I'll go home and get some."

She then explained it would probably do no good since the pipe was cracked and we (get this "we" business, will ya?) would be better to just take it off.

Then he went prone and also appraised the situation, agreeing with her premise. He simply took the thing off then, had me open the trunk and popped it in.

Now here's where I come into the picture with my probably dippy question, "But will I be able to drive it now? Won't it make too much noise?" Whereupon he informed me it was the resonator, not the muffler, and it would probably be just fine. I was to get in, start the motor and see; and he was right!

Now — can you imagine two young people (mind you — the youth of our day which is so maligned) taking the time on a cold, windy Monday to help someone they'd never even seen before? I was truly amazed!

When I asked their names (Gwen and Rick), thanked them profusely and inquired as to why they'd bothered, Rick answered, "Well, I always think someday I might need some help."

Gwen's response was, "I heard the noise, looked out and saw what your problem was. And you being all dressed up" (I wasn't in slacks for a change) "I knew you had someplace to go so I just figured I'd help."

I've since been back to re-thank Gwen (and that'd make still another column) and will try to locate Rick shortly. In the meantime, it's just so nice to be relating a tale such as this. Talk about making my day! It will actually make a lot of days since it certainly restored my faith in my fellow man (and fellow states men.)

IT TAKES SOME LEARNING BUT —

— IT IS OUR STRENGTH that may attract people to us initially, but it is our weakness that makes them like us, that touches some of our own inadequacies and forges a common bond of humanity. It is this one touch of nature that makes the whole world kin.

TRIVIA, ANYONE?

- The tulip originated in Central Asia and gets its name from the Turkish word for turban.
- The shoestring was invented in England in 1790.
- It takes half an ounce of gas to start the average car.
- The American artist James Whistler sometimes signed his pictures by painting a small butterfly.
- West Virginia usually produces about 20 percent of the nation's bituminous coal.
- The average American's cholesterol consumption has been decreasing lately, government studies show.
- The last known fluent speaker of Cornish, an English dialect, died at the end of the late 19th century.
- The weapon, the bayonette, is named for the French city of Bayonne where it was invented in the 17th century.
- The first needles, historians say, were made about 30,000 years ago.
- The Alamo was so called because it stood in a grove of cottonwood trees called "alamo" in Spanish.
- Since the sixth century, the same family has occupied the Japanese throne.
- Eight percent of the world's ice is in Antarctica.

THE BOTTOM LINE: In the good old days, when a man finished his day's work, he needed rest; nowadays he needs exercise.

Census Bureau to take employment survey here

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the work week of April 18-23, 1983, Robert G. McWilliam, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Detroit, announced today.

In addition to the usual questions on current employment, the April survey will include others concerning country of birth and immigration.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 71,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in February 1983 the survey indicated that of the 110.6 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 99.1 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate for the civilian labor force was 10.4 percent, unchanged from January. The nation's overall unemployment rate — which includes the resident Armed Forces in the labor force — also remained unchanged from January at 10.2 percent.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

our opinions

Turn lights on at Fair Haven field

We do not understand what the big fuss is all about over Fair Haven Baptist Church request to construct lights on its softball field.

Fair Haven Church pastor and members, approximately 100 strong, have urged the Westland City Council to approve lights to allow more church teams to play on the diamond.

Initially, there appeared to be no council, or other, objections to the request. It appeared that the Baptists would soon see the light — and hopefully many others.

Council however turned off those lights — at least temporarily — when the vote ended in a 3-3 deadlock last week. Supporting the request for the lights are Councilmen Charles 'Trav' Griffen, Kenneth Mehl and Ben DeHart. Voting 'No' were Councilmen Thomas Artley, Kent Herbert and Robert Wagner. Council member Nancy Neal was absent.

With crime and vandalism rampant and at an all-time high, these church people want to build something constructive and provide a place for church and other people to have recreation in a well-supervised environment.

Fair Haven Church, at 34850 Marquette in Westland, has built a softball diamond that has been called the finest in the state by many Parks and Recreation officials.

We commend the church on its efforts to do something positive in a world that seems turned topsy-turvy by violence, discord and hatred.

The softball diamond sets back off the field and is located on an 8.5 acre site, far removed from even the seven houses across the street. There have been no problems at the field in its 3-year existence because church members closely supervise everyone playing there.

We feel that the lights will be a great benefit in permitting more church people — men and women — to play on the field. There is a Baptist Church League on the field, but we also know that every church in Westland — regardless of denomination — has a standing invitation to play on the diamond, but there are just not enough hours in a day to handle them all.

We urge those council members who voted against the lights to reconsider.

Nation pays tribute to its Army reserves

How many Americans know that April 23 marks the 75th anniversary of the U.S. Army Reserves?

And how many local and area residents know that Inkster is the base for the Headquarters of the 300th Military Police Prisoner of War Command, a unit of the Army Reserves?

Although the peacemakers are blessed, none will argue that these are not the times to be weak. And whatever the strategy of arms control, none advocate the total abolition of our arsenals of weapons.

The Soviet Union stands, like a giant, making it abundantly clear with its actions to "wipe the capitalist system from the face of the earth." If you don't know who they're talking about, it's pretty clear they're talking about us, America.

Our military power must never forget the message that each and every Soviet citizen — man, woman and child — repeats daily: the future belongs to Communism.

The realities of life force us to maintain a well-equipped, always prepared military.

And what better time to pay tribute to our men and women in uniform than now as they stand ready to protect our shores and skies from our enemies.

Words can never express our gratitude.

But we would like them, and the U.S. Army Reserves, to know that never has there been a time that we needed and appreciated them more.

The Reserves, once a back-up force, is now an integral part of the America's first line of defense. The active Army depends on it for critical wartime support and could fight only a few days without Reserve mobilization.

Recognizing that fact, Congress is now providing more resources to an increasingly professional Reserve. Reserve units are getting new equipment, more full-time workers, better training and much closer ties to the active Army.

And the Reserve soldier is a "bargain", costing only one-fifth as much to maintain as his counterpart in the active Army.

Started in 1908 as a 200-man medical force, the Army Reserve now numbers almost a quarter million drilling Reservists in units and another 200,000-plus "individual ready reservists available for emergency call-up.

Unlike the regular army, the Reserves are a community-based institution and, because they don't use the high-pitch publicity, people usually overlook them.

On this their 75th anniversary, a people and nation are thankful to those who wear the uniforms of the U.S. Army Reserves.

Pregnant mom speaks out in support of WCGH

Massive job layoffs attributed to the poor economy has been taking its toll on Wayne County residents in domino fashion, leaving no corner-stone unturned.

And William Lucas is adding to the dilemma with a proposal to close down Wayne County General Hospital.

At this time, the facility, along with its various satellite clinics, has doubled its outpatient clientele because so many of us are unemployed and without adequate health insurance if any at all.

This is only a very small tip of the iceberg. The community need is quickly becoming more evident by the vast and increasing medical needs met there daily, as seen in the over-all expansion and updating of many hospital departments with surges in physician contracting by University Hospital of Ann Arbor to the various outpatient clinics in our communities.

Wayne County General has traditionally been a teaching hospital of the highest caliber, giving us some of the finest skilled physicians in the country.

It is rich in history. It gave us much to be proud of, being the first medical institution in the United States to pioneer the use of X-rays on its patients for bone fractures and dislocations in 1897.

With its historical good-will policy still providing care in all major medical fields this alone should prevail any or all budgetary problems while it remains the chief emergency hospital for western Wayne County.

Somewhere we need to draw the line and speak up for the needy in our communities who never seem to have a voice and are being forced to accept health care as a luxury affordable only to wealthy.

Wrong as it may be, more and more physicians are turning away patients and hospitals are following suit. As in my case, for instance, when my husband became unemployed, we lost all of our medical benefits and family physician in the same day.

We were told to seek medical assistance elsewhere.

It was very traumatic for us, being I was expecting my second child. You know, it isn't very likely to find the proper family physician in one afternoon.

And one who'll take a family without insurance or the ability to pay the large amount needed in cash to deliver a child?

But fortunately Wayne County General has always made health care available and accessible to everyone, recognizing that we as people are entitled to this without sacrificing our personal dignity and self respect.

I called Wayne County General and explained my predicament and was referred to one of the MIC Prescad Prenatal Clinics in my area and was accepted the same day. No questions asked.

"As stated...MIC-PRESCAD cares" Pamphlet (April, 1983)

MIC-Prescad stands for Maternity and Infant

Care-Preschool, School and Adolescent Children...This covers children from birth to 18 years of age, beginning April 1, 1983.

Lack of public awareness in regards to the services offered at these clinics through WCGH need to be rectified and brought to the public's attention.

There is no charge for clinic services and when hospitalization is needed the project assists families in finding available resources to pay the bill.

The clinics are extremely well staffed by physicians, dentists, dental hygienist and assistants, psychologists, hearing and vision technicians, nurses and nurse practitioners, public health nurses, social workers, nutritionists, laboratory technicians, clerical staff and clinical nurses.

Provisions and/or referrals are made through the clinic for medications, eye examinations and glasses, hearing aids, dental care, the food programs such as food stamps, Focus Hope and WIC the supplemental food programs, also emergency food assistance and other health care needs.

Every Thursday at 10:30 a.m. the parents, nursing staff and social worker informally get together at WCGH and discuss physical, emotional, medical and social problems which is very reassuring in the fact these sessions can dispel the old stigma surrounding the obstetric procedures and new birth options available.

WCGH has developed a new practice of family centered care where mother and father participate in the child bearing experience.

They offer free Lamaze classes every Friday at 1:30 p.m. at WCGH. As of three months ago they began something new, the photographing of newborns. Visitation is now strongly encouraged making this an unforgettable and rewarding experience for everyone. The maternity unit has certainly gone through many changes over the years, now being the finest if not busiest in the area, exceeding 120 births annually.

If your baby requires special attention they have the finest Neonatal Intensive Care Unit available.

Many of our area hospitals will transfer most newborn emergencies they are not equipped to handle over to WCGH's NICU section. The tours of the maternity unit really tell the whole story.

I was fortunate enough to have toured the maternity unit and to have spoken with many of their fine doctors and nurses who were so generous with their time and missed lunch to assist me in my research for this article. I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the fine employees of WCGH, who are doing one heck of a fine job seeing that the citizens of Wayne County without regard to race, creed, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, handicap or source of payment, receive the highest quality health care available.

Another look at Headlee

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

A philosopher once said that there are no such things as translations.

And, rewriting the following letter may somehow distort or lose some meaning, therefore, I'll let Senate Majority Leader William Faust take over from here:

It's ironic, but a portion of the "Headlee amendment" — designed to limit state spending and make such spending more efficient — is having exactly the opposite effect.

The Headlee amendment was promoted by Richard Headlee, the recently defeated Republican gubernatorial candidate, and was approved by Michigan voters in 1978. Part of the Headlee language is now Section 30, Article IX of the Michigan Constitution. Section 30 states that "the proportion of total state spending paid to all units of Local Government, taken as a group, shall not be reduced below that proportion in effect in fiscal year 1978-79." The proportion, later defined by statute, is 41.61 percent total and 58.39 percent state.

Section 30's intent was to ensure that the state doesn't fund new state programs at the expense of aid to local governments. In practice, though, Section 30 has had several unintended and undesirable effects. The section has restricted the ability of the governor and legislature to view the state budget in its entirety. Section 30 also forces decisions which tend to divert dollars from areas of greatest need to those of lesser need, makes state-side programs vulnerable to disproportionate funding reductions, and causes an overall inadequate allocation of resources. Here's why:

- Followed to its logical conclusion, Section 30 actually increases state spending beyond what is necessary or even reasonable. For example, during a recession there is an increase in the number of welfare caseloads, creating a need for additional social services funding. But for every dollar added to the social services budget, Section 30 mandates that 71 cents must be added to the local portion to maintain the state/local ratio.

- When budget cuts are necessary, Section 30 forces the governor and legislature to reduce spending primarily in areas where cyclical demand is at its peak. Many people believe that when there is a Section 30 imbalance, the state must simply provide additional dollars to local units. But in times of recession, this is not the case. During a recession there are no extra funds to allocate — instead, cuts are made. And because of Section 30, those cuts fall disproportionately on the state-side of the budget. The unequal reductions in state aid incurred by Michigan colleges and universities are to a large extent the result of this feature of Section 30.

- Section 30 penalizes the state for budget actions that are designed to help local units of government. For example, Executive Order 1982-13 cut $78.3 million in state aid to local school districts. However, to avoid having local school districts suffer such a loss, the legislature adopted a revised payment schedule which ensures that the schools will not incur a loss in their fiscal year (which runs from July 1 to June 30) while the state is able to delay having to pay that amount in its fiscal year (which runs from October 1 to September 30). But by doing this, the state created a Section 30 imbalance — despite the fact that the state's actions in reality avoided local unit reductions.

- Section 30 distorts true budget trends. Projections indicate that future spending needs will be concentrated in such areas as higher education, corrections, mental health and social services — all primarily state-side spending areas. Simultaneously, declining school enrollments will result in less demand for K-12 education funds — a local spending area. The result is future Section 30 imbalances which may force the state to direct dollars away from priority areas to areas of lesser demand.

- Finally, Section 30 creates a problem with the Budget Stabilization Fund. The fund's purpose is to save money during good economic times for use during poor economic times. However, payment into the fund is counted totally as state-side spending, which creates a Section 30 imbalance. To correct the imbalance, funds for local spending must be increased (if such funds are available) or state-side spending must be cut and added to the local side. The first option forces additional and probably unnecessary state spending to correct a paper imbalance; the second option limits the legislature's discretion in dealing with individual state-side problems.

Section 30 has changed state budgeting significantly and promises to be an even greater burden in the future. Ironically, this part of the Headlee amendment has promoted government waste and inefficiency, hamstrung state government in its efforts to deal efficiently with specific problems and needs, and created a bureaucratic nightmare.

Asbestos and Romulus High

EDITOR — If the public knew that young adults were being exposed daily to a germ which results in lung disease and cancer, and certain death, it would be outraged. When every effort was not made to immediately remove the source of danger, charges of negligence and criminal conduct would be made against those who permitted the exposure to continue. Yet a similar situation exists at Romulus Senior High School. Every student and teacher in the building is exposed daily to minute fibers of asbestos, which fall from the ceiling and float in the air to every corner of the building. When inhaled, even one fiber of microscopic size can result in asbestosis, a lung disease which causes deterioration and eventually death to those susceptible to it.

If students became ill and died within a few months of exposure, the situation would be recognized as critical. However, a person who inhales asbestos fibers lodge the cancer-causing material in the lung forever and may wait ten or twenty years before the disease appears.

Assuming that most of the young people of Romulus will be somewhere twenty years from now, leading a productive life as someone's mother or father, friend, or neighbor; the danger of being struck down with asbestosis or cancer is very real. The possibility of some of today's students eventually suffering a painful disease followed by death is a certainty.

Being struck down in the midst of life is a terrible price for someone to pay for the sake of the few dollars a year that it would cost each taxpayer to correct this disastrous situation. Tests made by the Michigan Department of Public Health in 1981 first revealed the problem, which increases with the deterioration of the ceiling's asbestos coating.

The people of Romulus are guilty of negligence to allow the condition to remain (although it is debatable whether the city could be found criminally liable). Those who agree the Romulus community cannot afford to endanger the well-being of its youth must alert those who are not aware of the urgency of this situation to the need for corrective action.

For more information and to register a complaint against this condition, or to offer help correcting it, call the Board of Education office, 941-1600.

The logic in stop signs

EDITOR — In an article that appeared in the Associated Newspapers' Wayne Eagle edition (April 7), Wayne Mayor Patrick Norton is quoted as saying: "Stop signs cause accidents."

Using this logic it would seem that all the stop signs in the city should be removed as soon as possible. We could then all feel much more safe.

Some people never learn

EDITOR — I am very disheartened and somewhat surprised that civilized citizens would exhibit this type of conduct, which is totally ungoverned and juvenile actions such as spreading garbage (one bag at a time) on the roadside and in the ditches, also dumping such items as couches, washing machines, mattresses, stoves, chairs, old car and truck parts, loads of old tires, vegetable crates, you name it.

Most of these items are dumped less than a mile from the land-fill to which this rubbish could be taken free of charge for Township residents. I assume that all residents are aware of this.

This is why I am sure that this littering is deliberately done.

I, as a taxpayer citizen, as every other taxpayer, have the right to complain if we are not satisfied with conditions, where we reside. I feel that we in lower Sumpter are being ill-treated for no other reason than that we are concerned about our livelihood, and the method that we are governed by.

I agree that some of our residents should take more interest in where they live as far as cleaning up, but that is not an excuse why all excess garbage should be dumped on lower Sumpter.

I feel that citizens who practice or debate themselves thus, should really search their consciences and come face to face with themselves as what they would feel and do in the same situation as I am.

We in lower Sumpter would not stoop to commit such an action toward anyone.

I am also sure that right will outweigh wrong as I am sure those citizens responsible for these deeds will realize it to be a malicious thing to do and will take time to analyze it.

Where is atomic age heading?

EDITOR — The statistics given by President Reagan clearly show our dismal rating in the military balance between our United States and the Soviet Union. In spite of this poor ratio and the dangerous position we are in, the nuclear freeze movement seems to be growing.

Will the leaders call for unilateral disarmament as the next step? This is pacifism, a surrender of our dear-bought freedom — freedom bought with someone else's blood.

Speak out, freedom lovers. Where are all the voices of those who resist being placed at the mercy of so powerful and pitiless an enemy as Russia? I would expect a deluge of letters to this newspaper advocating a return to a strong defense comparable to the Soviet massive build-up. Let us not forget George Washington's advice: "To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace."

Despite the establishment press attempts to whitewash the new dictator, Yuri V. Andropov, the truth is that Russia under Andropov will be even more ruthless in its goal of world domination.

Andropov was mastermind of the rape of Hungary in 1956, of Czechoslovakia in 1968, and of Poland in 1982. For the last 15 years, as head of the KGB, he has starved and tortured millions in the gulags of the USSR, personally overseen the brutalizing of dissidents, directed the training of terrorists throughout the world, and even administered a plot to murder Pope John Paul II.

The communists' newest crime, in a long list of merciless genocide, is a chemical or toxin weapon (specifically banned by international agreements) so instant and devastating. Called "silent death," its use in Afghanistan, Laos, and Cambodia has been verified.

In the 35-plus years of the atomic age, our government has tried, repeatedly and consistently, to ban nuclear weapons. The only requirement we asked of the Soviets was mutual on-site inspection. The Soviets just as repeatedly and consistently refused.

So what now makes the leaders of the nuclear freeze movement think that if we junk our nukes, the Soviets will, too? Naive myopia?

Say that again, Mr. non-smoker

EDITOR — In the April 20-21 letters, was one from a Belleville resident who used about the most asinine collection of words ever put down in print.

I'm a non-smoker and wonder if perhaps the writer is on "pot" and with the manner his mind works, hasn't noticed it yet.

To quote — "A habit chosen by persons of lower intelligence than non-smokers."

How's that?

The word intelligence isn't based on the fact that you don't smoke.

My husband, a smoker, isn't a complete idiot; he managed to master a profession which has fed our three children, then our daughter's two children, and myself for the last forty-four years. He is intelligent enough to master the Masonic Lodge; and, he is now a retiree, is smarter than at least one non-smoker, as he knows how to spell "damn!"

In all the smoke — just imagine!

Concerns over jail overcrowding

EDITOR — I am concerned with prison overcrowding in our state. Inmates have constitutional rights and at least some of these rights are violated when inmates are forced to live in overcrowded prisons.

Instead of sending so many convicts to prisons, some convicts could be safely released to the community to participate in various rehabilitative programs.

Of course some offenders are currently involved in community rehab programs. However, more offenders could participate in these programs.

Such programs could include restitution and community service. The offender would be made to compensate the individual victim or the community at-large.

The convict would be given personal counseling and provided with assistance in obtaining a job or vocational skills. Of course non-violent offenders would be the primary participants in these community-based correction programs.

Prison overcrowding is a serious problem which needs to be more effectively addressed. Your views on this subject would be of interest to me on what action might be taken to alleviate prison overcrowding. I wonder if our state legislature would move on this very important issue.

Turn on lights at Haven field

EDITOR — As a parent and a community member, I cannot see any reason why the Fair Haven Baptist Church, 34850 Marquette, Westland, cannot erect lights on their softball field.

I am not a member of that church or any other church, but I do feel very strongly that the church has as much right to a lighted field as the city or the schools. The ball field will be used by several churches in the community.

I personally know Rev. Paul Heady Jr. and Rev. Jim Bradley and believe that they are both men of their word.

The city and school diamonds are taken up seven days a week by the WYAA and the school teams which are funded more or less by tax monies. The church lights will not be funded by tax money.

The lights on this field will be less of a distraction to the neighbors than the lights at Jaycee Park or John Glenn or several other fields.

To those of you who are opposing this matter, please stop and think of your children. Maybe someday they will want to play ball and just maybe there won't be a field for them to play on.

reflections

Do things really change?

One time I said in great profundity that life goes in circles. That nothing is absolutely new. What is, has been, and will be again. Oh, I know that most of you will tell me that that knowledge was imparted to us a long time ago by philosophers, and reiterated through the ages, but, honestly, when I said I thought I had just found out something new.

I thought I had found something new, because I had reached that age in life, when I was going over the circle and meeting myself again.

When I was a young married woman with one little girl, I used to spend hours ironing. All of those ruffles and lace and circular skirts on cotton fabric, had to be washed, starched, hung up on the line where they stiffened into board-like objects, taken down, sprinkled heavily, rolled and left to soak up the sprinkling, and finally ironed. The lace on the ruffles stood straight up, and the ruffles would not have dared to droop.

When I was at last finished and totally exhausted, my neighbor would run in with a steaming cup of coffee and beg me to sit and rest a minute while she told me how it was when SHE raised her children. She had to heat the iron on a wood-burning stove. And she knelt down every night and thanked God when the electric iron came to pass.

That is how I felt when polyester came into being. By that time I had a house full of kids, and how great it was to throw their dirty clothes into an automatic washer, zip them from there and into a dryer, where they came out soft and unwrinkled. A quick swipe (if I were in the mood) of a steam iron made my children's clothes look as if I had spent hours at the ironing board. Sometimes I just folded them and pressed them with the palm of my hand.

It was a happy time, and I didn't know that I might have been damaging my kids health.

That is what I read this morning. Natural fabrics are coming back in, and one reason is because they are so healthy for you. Synthetic fabrics won't let your skin breathe, the article said, and that is the reason so many kids have rash on their faces and bodies, and all the time I thought it was because they weren't using enough soap.

New mothers can expect to be right back where I was almost forty years ago, spending hours at the ironing board, ironing those little cotton dresses and shirts and jeans.

Another time when I realized I was over the top of the circle was when my oldest boy brought home his new car and with all of the enthusiasm of eighteen year old new car owners, was eschewing the value of the stick shift. The STICK SHIFT!!

"Let me drive your car around the block," the neighbor kids begged. And he let them.

"Let me drive your car around the block," I said, and the kid looked at me in horror.

"Mother — you can't drive this car around the block. How would YOU know how to use a brand new thing like the stick shift?" How, indeed?

Mini-skirts! Remember when any girl who wanted to be in style wore skirts almost up to her waist line? And my kids thought it was a brand new idea. But I remembered when I was a little girl, and I had a best friend whose mother ALWAYS wore skirts way above her knees. She was a flapper.

"Scandalous," my grandmother snorted. But I thought it was beautiful. And I begged and begged my mother to shorten HER dresses until they barely covered her posterior. I was so embarrassed when my best friend came to my house, and my mother's dresses came to her KNEES!

And wood-burning stoves! My son installed one in his house and he was ecstatic!

started out, she didn't go into it with the idea she would destroy kid's minds — and yet here she is, doing just that.

And how is it that some teachers can turn an awesome responsibility into a power trip or an ego trip — or no trip at all — and get away with it?

It can't be because they are so hard to spot — the good teacher shines like a lighthouse in the night. The good teacher teaches with love and zest and with emphasis on motivation.

The bad teacher does not. The bad teacher depends on textbooks, workbooks, mimeographed sheets and machines to do her job. The good teacher looks on them as supplements to her imagination. She sees her zest as the fizz that makes the soda. Without it, the whole thing falls flat.

Learning is painless, even fun, to the students of the good teacher. To the students of the bad teacher, every weekday becomes six hours of unadulterated agony.

But forget the bad teachers for a moment. Let's look at how the good teacher does it: My imaginary teacher is a third grade teacher.

She, however, thinks above the third grade level. She doesn't rely on third grade wordlists or textbooks. She knows that her students extracurricular hours

JOYCE HAGELTHORN

"It saves money," he shouted over the telephone, "and it is so warm! There is a difference in the heat."

"I know," I answered. "How do you know?" he asked.

Because when I was a very little girl I used to jump out of bed in the mornings, trace pictures on the frosted windows, run down icy-feeling steps and slither in behind a wood-burning stove, where I dressed, with the crackling warmth touching my body clear through.

I expect, if the natural gas prices again climb to the ceiling, to see horse's and buggy's brought back. There was nothing more exciting than being all dressed up to go to Grandma's, and leaning over the buggy and watching the buggy wheels cutting into the dust of the road, listening to the clomp-clomp of the horses' hooves, and watching his tail lazily swinging back and forth, as we crept slowly towards a summer's day of chicken, home-made ice-cream and lemonade.

It will have been full-circle for me.

are filled with signs, sounds and concepts far beyond the canned third grade level.

It is within her power to push, to interpret, to encourage her class to question — and there is nothing that says it has to be done within a third grade framework.

If, for example, one of her students wants to know who Robert Oppenheimer was, she will become a resource person rather than the one from whom the answer comes. She will direct the questioner to the appropriate reading material, with just the merest tantalizing mention of the Atomic Energy Commission and Joseph McCarthy.

When her student has learned what he wanted to learn, he will feel free to come to her with the answers, knowing that she will be as enthusiastic and interested as he is about the results.

There will be no test at the end to see if he really learned what she expected him to learn — nothing to make his leery of the quest. It will be enough that he learned what he wanted to learn.

Because the good teacher knows that that's how doors are opened.

mona grigg

When teachers were teachers

If I could credit anyone for my love of words on paper, I would surely credit Jean Kremer (Mrs. Kremer to me), my English teacher for four years in high school.

It is strange what power the good teacher has over her students. Even the ones who don't consider themselves "students" — that is, a person who studies. Her natural enthusiasm for the subject she loves arouses their curiosity (what could be so wonderful?), and causes them to dig a little deeper.

Thereafter, they will decide whether they take to the subject enough to expend a lot of energy on it. But, even if they should decide not to, the good teacher makes it interesting enough so that, if nothing else, the launching of spitballs takes a temporary back seat to listening.

It's about all the realistic teacher can ask for.

Oddly enough, the "bad" teachers are not necessarily the "tough" ones. The tough ones, the kids know, only seem tough because they expect something out of them. That is not all bad. It means she thinks they can do it. The "tough" teacher is the one whose students come back year after year to thank her for keeping their noses to the grindstone.

The "mean" teacher, on the other hand, is mean for the pure meanness of it. She is known for bringing kids to tears by reason of humiliation. The kid who cannot take it sits in the back of the room and tries to blend into the woodwork.

Sometimes he does that for the rest of his life. In the room of the mean teacher, there are no spontaneous outbursts, with each kid trying to outdo the other. They dare not take the chance the answer could be wrong. Instead, they all sit slouched, praying the teacher won't call on them.

If by chance the teacher should call on one by name, his throat will close up so he can barely whisper, "I don't know." The answer he knew five minutes ago has, with the sound of her voice, drifted completely away.

She looks at him as though he were the lowest form of life and it doesn't even matter that she neglects to call him "stupid". He knows she is thinking it.

At that same terrible moment the rest of the class is basking in a certain smugness — they are so glad it isn't one of them, they can't even feel sorry for the lone victim.

There is a constant struggle for ego-survival in that classroom and any thought of concentration on subject matter flies right out the window.

What could bring a teacher to that point? Surely when she

Van Buren pre-kindergarteners

It's time to register kids

Parents of Pre-Kindergarten children who will be five years old on or before December 1, 1983, and who reside within the Van Buren Public Schools, are urged to register their children during Pre-Kindergarten registration days in their local elementary school.

The registration will offer an opportunity for parents and their child to talk to the principal and kindergarten teacher and to get acquainted with the classroom. School health services representatives will provide information on necessary immunization.

Parents are to be reminded that state law prohibits nonimmunized children from starting school. The Michigan State Public Health Code states that no student be allowed to enter school for the first time without presenting evidence of having received at least one dose of each vaccine (unless exempted for temporary or long-term reasons). During the 1983-84 school year, there will be no opportunity or waiting period to provide warning notices to parents. The state mandate is a major change in the admission of new entrant students to our schools. Parents must bring:

- 1 — The child's birth certificate (or other legal proof of age).
- 2 — Month, day and year child received immunization, as verified by a physician.
- 3 — Records of any communicable diseases and date of occurrence.

Olympic style medals for first, second and third places.

An exchange of ideas

Romulus High's principal holds monthly meetings with parents

A new and important addition has been added to the Romulus Senior High school schedule.

On the third Tuesday of the month, E. L. Sheffield, principal, meets with parents to get their input into changes that affect students.

Sheffield frankly discusses new ideas being considered and those being developed for the high school, and asks for the opinion of the parents.

The April 19 meeting gave parents a chance to examine the 1983-84 "Course of Study". The curriculum guide is designed to provide students and parents with a comprehensive tool for educational planning.

The contents of course descriptions, levels of ability, prerequisites, and graduation requirements are clearly presented and will help the student select a successful course of study.

The requirements for graduation have changed to strengthen the student's program of study. Changes include a requirement for ninth grade college preparatory students to take six classes and all students to take English at their level of ability through the twelfth grade.

Students who score below a minimum level will be required to take Basic Reading in addition to their English class.

Students will be placed in math and English classes according to their California Achievement Test (C.A.T.) scores and teacher recommendation. The C.A.T. tests were given this year to help in measuring the level of achievement for students.

(C.A.T. results have just been tabulated and parents will soon get the students' scores.

Sheffield said that textbooks available need up-dating, and there are not enough for all of the students.

Next fall's teacher assignments will be made in June. It will allow teachers to prepare lesson plans during the summer, and offers them the opportunity to take classes at their own expense in their area of study if they choose.

The proposal for a new attendance policy tightens the rules for absences by students. The policy increases the role of parents' responsibility in assuring that students are in school unless there is a genuine reason for being absent.

A general discussion involving concerns about the high school gave parents a chance to talk about problems involving their children.

The monthly meeting will be held on the third Tuesday of each month. The next scheduled coffee is May 17 at 7 in the library.

Joy-riding teens 'total' stolen Vet

A 15-year-old juvenile has been charged with unlawfully driving away a vehicle following the alleged theft of a 1967 Corvette from the home of his foster parents in Canton Township.

The youth allegedly took the car which was parked at a Harsdale Street residence at about 10 p.m. April 14. He was observed by the homeowner, Larry Rivers, who notified Canton police.

Sometime in the early morning hours of April 15, according to police reports of the incident, Michigan State Police officers spotted the car in a subdivision near Haggerty and Hanford roads in the township. As the police approached the car, the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle, police surmise, and the Corvette crashed at Haggerty and Greenwood. "He simply ran out of road," an officer explained.

Two juveniles were arrested at the scene at 2:30 a.m. and immediately transported by Canton Emergency Medical Technicians to Oakwood Hospital due to injuries sustained in the crash. The driver, however, walked away from the car without serious injury and fled the scene on foot.

FINAL WEEK FOR ORDERING

Order your new Ford just the way you want it by April 30 and qualify for the 9.9% A.P.R. Financing.

There's one word that makes our annual percentage rate different from everybody else's:

Quality.

9.9%
Annual Percentage Rate

Last year, Ford Motor Company achieved the highest quality rating of any major American car or truck maker.*

Simple logic leads to the conclusion that the best way to measure the quality of anybody's 9.9% annual percentage rate program is to measure the quality of their cars and trucks.

Get 9.9% financing on new Ford small cars.

That includes popular Escort and sporty two-seat EXP. Superior technology and ride quality have made these among America's favorite small cars.

Get 9.9% financing on tough Ford Ranger.

When you purchase any new Ranger except 4x2 gas engine models built before December 1, 1982, you get the 9.9% annual percentage rate.

And that's just the beginning.

As an incentive to buyers who want and need larger cars and trucks, Ford is sponsoring special annual percentage rates that can save you hundreds of dollars over the period you finance your purchase.

If you finance for 12 to 36 months, you'll get an 11.9% annual percentage rate on any new LTD and Mustang.

If you finance for 48 months, you'll get an annual percentage rate of 12.9%.*

Great deals for truck buyers, too.

The same annual percentage rates of 11.9% for 12 to 36 month contracts and 12.9% for 48 month contracts apply to new light conventional trucks (excluding 6.9 diesels), to new 4x2 gas engine Rangers built before December 1, 1982, and to new Broncos and the all-new Bronco II.

The cash alternative.

If you're a cash buyer, you will receive a check for $300 direct from Ford when you purchase any new Escort, Mustang or EXP.

Some fine print.

You must order your new Ford vehicle from a participating dealer before April 30, 1983. Or take delivery of a new car or truck from stock by May 31, 1983. There is a limit of one per qualified retail buyer and dealer contribution may affect customer savings. See your authorized dealer for details.

*Based on a comparison of three major U.S. auto makers by an independent research firm of 11,000 new car and light truck owners. Study was based on things going wrong three months after purchase on 1982 model cars and trucks. Example of a typical contract with a total cash price of $10,000 with a $2,000 down payment. Your monthly payment would be $265.33 for 36 months at 11.9% A.P.R. or $274.22 for 48 months at 12.9% A.P.R.

Area skaters return for World Tour

Carol Fox of Westland and Richard Dalley of Southfield, the reigning national champion bronze medalists in ice dancing, will be among the participants in the 1983 World Figure Skating Tour performance at the Joe Louis Arena next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The pair met 14 years ago at a roller rink in Plymouth and began skating together in 1972, representing the Wyandotte Skating Club. Both pursued competitive roller skating before taking to the ice.

In 1980 Fox and Dalley left the Detroit area to study and train in Wilmington, Delaware under coach Ron Ludington and since that time have collected an impressive array of medals and championships in the sport of ice dancing.

The world Figure Skating Tour also will feature other current world and national champions and will preview many skaters who will compete in the 1984 Winter Olympics. Proceeds from the 15-city tour will develop programs for amateur competitors.

Tickets, priced at $12.50, $10.50 and $8.50, are on sale at the arena and all CTC outlets. For general information and group discounts, contact the arena at 567-6000.

Carol Fox of Westland and her skating partner, Richard Dalley, will be among the performers featured in the Figure Skating Tour at Joe Louis Arena next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

(RCA Import)

Bowiephiles harken! "Fashions," an import set of 10 Bowie 45 picture discs, is probably the ultimate item released thus far for fans of Ziggy Stardust.

Not only are all 10 singles beautifully made with a different color shot on each side, but the music itself is fantastic — and many of the tunes have been out of print for years. And even among the well-known songs, hardcore fans will appreciate the different mixes on the 45 versions — "The Jean Genie", for instance.

Some of Bowie's "B" sides have never appeared on album before (although a couple are on the import "Rare" LP, and this is your chance to hear great numbers like "Velvet Goldmine," "Round And 'Round," and Bowie and guitarist Mick Ronson's interpretation of Jacques Brel's haunting "Amsterdam".

Some of the better known songs included in the set are "Space Oddity", Bowie's first major hit; "Ziggy Stardust," the centerpiece of one of the greatest rock albums ever recorded; "Rebel, Rebel," which goes right alongside the Kinks "Lola" in the androgyny sweepstakes; and "Sorrow", a great remake of a so-so song from the "Pin-Ups" album.

It's pretty expensive at close to 45 dollars, but it's practically guaranteed to go up in value as time goes by.

The rehearsing is over with, and it's curtain time for the cast and crew of the Wayne Memorial High School production of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible." The play, based on the 1692 Salem, Mass., witchcraft trials, will be presented at 8 p.m. April 28, 29 and 30 in the high school auditorium, located on Glenwood, east of Fourth Street, Wayne. Appearing in the play are Daniel Booth (left) as the Rev. John Hale and Charlene Atkinson as Tituba.

'The Crucible' to be staged this week

The struggle to know what is right for the individual and if life at any cost can be accommodated by that discovery is the underlying theme of "The Crucible," to be staged at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Stockmeyer Performing Arts Center on Glenwood east of Fourth in Wayne.

Twenty cast members and 30 students working behind the scenes are preparing for the play, based on the Salem, Mass., witch trials of 1692.

The play centers around a group of young girls who experiment with witchcraft in a repressive society, using a series of accusations against others to exonerate themselves of their crime.

Caught in the accusations is John Proctor and his wife Elizabeth, wrongfully accused by Abigail Williams, who has had a secret relationship with Proctor.

Proctor in an attempt to clear his wife admits to his illicit relationship to discredit Abigail. Elizabeth, when questioned about his admission, defends her husband, who in turn is accused of being possessed.

He, too, is jailed and condemned to death, and faces the struggle of determining what is right for him when he is offered the opportunity to recant his admission and live or be killed.

Tickets are priced at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens.

Huron holds on to beat Belleville, 8-5

Chiefs capture inaugural Little Caesar's baseball tourney

Huron High has struck "first blood" in the inaugural Little Caesar's Baseball Tournament.

Exploding for five runs in the second inning, the Chiefs turned back Belleville 8-5 to capture the three-team, round-robin invitational tournament organized by the local Caesar's pizza king.

Ypsilanti Lincoln also competed this year and Romulus High will be added a year from now to make it a four-team invitational, according to Belleville High coach Tom Fielder.

"We're hoping to make this an annual tournament," Fielder said. We would like to thank Little Caesar's for sponsoring it."

But Huron has the biggest "thank you".

Behind pitcher John Kucharzyk's nine-hitter and some exceptional defense, the Chiefs held on to stop Belleville for the championship. The Tigers rallied for three runs in the seventh but fell short.

Steve Korgal suffered the loss. The junior right-hander struck out four and walked three while Kucharzyk whiffed five and walked six. Korgal also collected three hits and drove in two of the seventh inning runs. Bob Courter had two of three and Irin Douglas finished with a perfect four-for-four, including a double.

Belleville qualified for the championship game by edging Lincoln 3-2 as winner John Dillon struck out five, walked three in firing a 3-hitter. Ahead 2-0, the Tigers gave up two unearned runs in the fifth but managed to break the deadlock in the sixth when Ron Schubert chased home Glen Arquette who had walked, stole second and scored in Schubert's double.

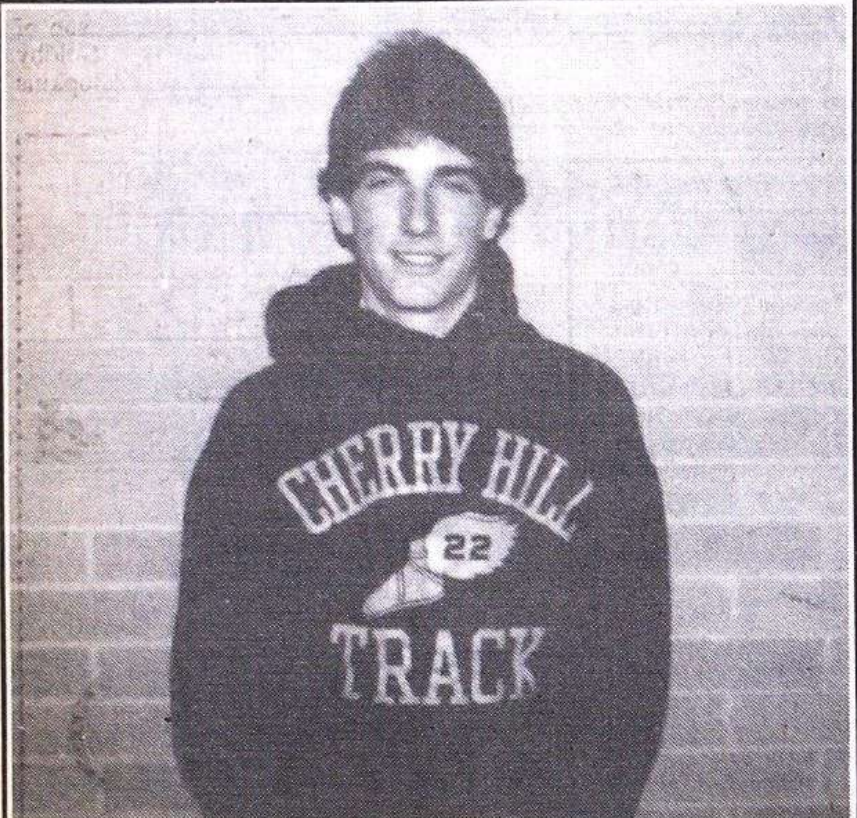

Belleville launched the 1983 campaign last week whipping Tecumseh 7-1 behind Dillon's one-hit pitching performance. He lost his bid for a no-hitter in the third on a single.

Then, last Wednesday, the Tigers split a doubleheader with Ypsilanti, winning the opener 12-4 thanks to Korgal's six-hitter and an exceptional hitting effort by Ron Ostrowski who came through for three hits in four at bats. Arquette also chipped in three hits.

It was a different story in the nightcap as the Braves gave up three hits and claimed an 8-3 triumph.

Cherry Hill was rough on the Tigers as the Spartans won both ends of a twin bill 7-5 in eight innings and 2-1. Ostrowski again fired up the Tigers with three hits and Dillon collected two as the losers managed to load the bases in the seventh but were unable to score in the first game.

Premier miler

Cherry Hill's senior miler, Danny Smith (above) has set a torrid pace in the mile event this season, claiming gold in all of the invitational (except at Mansfield) he has entered. He was voted the "Athlete of the Meet" at the Belleville Relays after leading the Spartans to three first places.

Top runners vie for Wayne relays

Some of the finest high school athletes in Michigan will invade Wayne on Saturday to compete in the annual Wayne Memorial Track & Field Relays.

Cherry Hill, led by premier miler, Danny Smith, is one of the favorites to capture the championship. Other high schools that will be represented in the field include Plymouth Salem, Canton, Westland John Glenn, Adrian, Trenton, Dearborn Heights Robichaud and the host, Adrian.

"We believe it will be an excellent meet," said Robert Lynn, former Eastern Michigan University and Inkster High hurdlers' star who has moved up from assistant to the top track coaching position at Wayne. The field events will get underway at 10:30 a.m. while the finals for the running events will begin at 1 p.m.

Wayne has some outstanding half and quarter milers in Shawn Boyer and Bill Howard. Boyer has been clocked in the quarter mile in a superb 48.8.

The Zebras have won three of their four meets this year, losing to Belleville in a non-league confrontation 64-60, then coming back to whip Taylor Center 127-24, turning back Garden City 80-52 and disposing of Fordson 77-55.

Cherry Hill's Smith 'outstanding'

Belleville dominates own track & field invitational

While Belleville High's boys and girls teams were dominating their own track relays, Cherry Hill's outstanding miler Danny Smith claimed the coveted "Athlete of the Meet" Award.

Belleville garnered 76 points to edge out Cherry Hill for the team championship in the Boys' Division, while the Tigers' team was forced to share honors with Plymouth Salem. The co-champs each had 76 points.

Some 12 teams competed in the relays under near perfection weather conditions.

Coach Dave Medley's athletes took three gold medals, winning the shot put with Martin Donaldson, Bill Armstrong and Rod Laframboise with a total effort of 136 feet, 2½ inches, while the Tiger shuttle hurdle relay made up of Tony Loechli, John Starr, Armstrong and Wayne Burney were clocked in the winning time of 67.6.

Belleville's 440-yard relay team of Earnell Hailes, Bob Griffin, Steve Turrentine and Bob Manley was the best in the field thanks to their 44.9 performance.

Belleville's girls' trio of Linda Johnson, Dawn Finley and Bridget Florian topped the high jumpers with a total effort of 13 feet, 10 inches and the Tiger half-mile relay of Charlotte Jones, Felicia Crawford, Laura Priebe and Susie Johnson turned in a winning 1:51.3.

The mile foursome of Bridget Florian, Kathy Zager, Tina Hardrick and Laura Priebe won in 4:20.3.

Romulus and Coach Al Wilerson had the best long jump team in Terry Roache, Grandison and Austin who had a combined effort of 61 feet, 10 inches.

Smith won the "Athlete of the Meet" award after leading the Spartans to three first places, pacing the mile relay win with a 4:26 and giving his teammates an incredible 280-yard lead to protect. He also figured in the distance medley relay and the 4-mile relay victories.

Coach Dick Gordon had the best high jump team at the meet with Earl Truss, Vandal Tate and Steve Sheahan who combined for 17 feet, 10 inches.

Sheahan set a Cherry Hill record when he cleared 6 feet, 7 inches, topping Herman Thompson's mark of 6 feet, ¾ inches established in 1976.

Smith teamed with Ed Mulrooney, Larry Dixon and Mike St. Johns to win the 4-mile relay with an excellent 19:07 effort, and he anchored the distance medley relay team with Mulrooney, Truss and St. John who were clocked in 11:23.7. In the mile relay, Richard Smith, Mulrooney, Lewis Smith and Dan Smith posted a 3:30.

Ken McNabb's name goes in record books

By JIM WRUBLEWSKI
(Special ANP Writer)

The night of Friday, April 15, was filled with excitement for sports fans. Detroit Tiger, Milt Wilcox, tried to pitch his way into the record books with a perfect game. He struck out eight batters and, with the help of his teammates, retired a total of 26 men before Jerry Hairston's base hit in the last inning spoiled his bid for a place in the record books.

The build up of pressure must have been phenomenal, and no one can be absolutely sure Jerry Hairston possessed good luck that night or Milt Wilcox was struck with some bad luck.

Whatever the case, it was a thrilling and memorable experience.

At Westland Bowl things were no different.

Bowling came to a virtual halt during the latter innings as bowlers left the lanes to stand in front of TV sets to share in the drama. In fact, people were so engrossed with Milt Wilcox's performance, they missed the start of history in the making out on the lanes.

Ken McNabb, rolling in the Westland Bowl Mixed Classic, was working his way into the record books by throwing strike after strike in an almost monotonous fashion. And Ken was doing this by himself. His teammates couldn't help with any slow or stubborn pins (due to a slightly misplaced delivery). All they could do is watch and offer moral support.

As it turned out (because of the excitement on the TV set) there weren't too many other people besides his teammates to witness Ken's throwing 12 strikes in a row for that lifetime first 300 game.

In fact, it's safe to say that this was the quietest perfect game in the history of that bowling center.

But the thrills and excitement didn't stop here for Ken or, for that matter, the rest of the people in attendance. He continued with his string of strikes taking it up to 19, then 20, and then 21, in a row. With the ball game over people started to pay attention to what was taking place on the lanes and realized that here was something that was truly amazing. Here was one man, by himself, going for his second consecutive perfect game.

To make things more interesting everything came to a virtual standstill as Ken stepped up to bowl. You could literally hear the proverbial pin drop as ball number 22 rolled to the 1-3 pocket to do its job on the pins for strike number 22. Strike number 23 was the same and the crowd cheered for Ken and this moment in history.

The crowd then held its breath as ball number 24 seemed to take forever to once again reach the 1-3 pocket and once again do its job for strike number 24.

Twenty-four strikes in a row! Two perfect games in a row! A total of 30 strikes out of a possible 36! Add a 216 game (with an open frame split) for an 816 total and you definitely have a box score to remember.

In other scoring at Westland Bowl, Doug Walls had games of 236-259-256 for 751; Mike Kane hit 715; Tony Chila had 259-210-206 to go 159 pins over average with a 675 series; and Len Hobson was 101 pins over with a 279 game.

The youngsters also made their mark as 17 year old, Tracy Mull put together games of 221-253-268 for 742; 13 year old Todd Quattlander rolled a 265 game; and a team of 16 to 19 year olds (including a young lady) rolled an actual 3202 series on games of 1015-1099-1088. The team members are Dave Vurgos (671), Ken Gabrielson (687), Chris LaVafe (597), Joe Mamroetski (570), and Steve Demaree (677).

Super Bowl scoring featured Connie O'Keefe with games of 226-236-202 for 664; 169 average Dianna Byk hit 212-236-200 for a 648 series; Nancy Thomas had 256 and 614; Vicki Grover rolled 213 and 221; Cindy Adkins hit 235; and Sally Forrest had a 224 game.

At MSU

Robichaud's Ross off to fast start

While this year's Michigan State University Invitational will probably best be remembered for its blustering winds and cold temperatures, the Spartans did manage to take firsts in six of the 16 total events.

Inkster's Tery Ross made his contributions as the senior middle distance runner ran on MSU's first-place mile relay team, while also taking sixth in the 800-meter run (1:53.54).

Spartan head coach Jim Bibbs was surprised by Ross' fine effort under less than ideal weather conditions.

Ross took fourth in last year's invitational in the 800 with a 1:53.10. In this season's Big 10 Indoor Meet, he ran a 1:54.54 in the 880-run. A point scorer in most of the meets he has competed in, Ross is a Robichaud graduate and is a physics major who will graduate in June.

Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Goldby Ross of 26929 Hopkins in Inkster.

Former Inkster great

'Daddy Wags' a tough player in life and in the 'big leagues'

By ALAN K. WALTZ SR.
(ANP Special Writer)

I don't remember the winter in Colorado in 1957 but I ran into someone the other day who did.

It seems this poor soul was a victim of the draft in 1957 and was sent to Fort Carson, Colorado for basic training and it happened to be in February.

He could see Pike's Peak from his barracks window on the days it didn't snow which wasn't very often. Some days they had to shovel their way down to the mess hall in order to get breakfast.

They had a very fair Company Commander who couldn't do much about mother nature's weird Colorado weather.

On bivouac that winter, some of the men suffered frostbite, pneumonia and assorted other ailments that can happen when you camp out for the week in sub-zero weather.

One of the best squad leaders (his name was Leon) rescued his men time after time as a very mean little son-of-a-gun from South Carolina happened to be in command most of the time when they were in the field. There was a hill called "old misery" which was almost straight up about 300 feet.

The men would walk that hill with full back packs despite the "questionable" weather and the "questionable" judgment of the little Sergeant from South Carolina. However, the squad leader named "Leon" would somehow ease the pain with his ready smile and a pat on the rump. While they (the men) cursed he would just give out that crazy laugh and say "they can't beat us guys, just grin and bear it we only have a few more weeks til baseball begins."

Finally, one day on the weekend when we were all resting in the barracks, someone said to Leon "Hey pal where are you from and what did you do before they sent us to this place?"

It was like lighting a little fire under Leon.

"Well you see fellas, I play baseball for a living and I'm from around Detroit a town called Inkster."

"As we all gathered around he brought out his clippings. Seems he had hit 50 home runs in the minors the year before. Most of us didn't believe him til he showed us the papers. I'm not sure what league or level of play it was but 50 homers is 50 homers any way you look at it."

Needless to say all the ball players gathered around the barracks that day recalling the old days on the sandlots from the east coast to the west coast. Even the guys who were really athletes but decided to sing in the choir that winter rather than pull guard duty were there.

It sure was nice to see them surface although we kinda resented their deceit but what the hell... Colorado in winter as a basic training site is much worse than driving to a far-away state with someone who can't drive but likes to banter.

Well all Army basic training stories come to a happy end and this one does too. Everyone made it through basic training despite the efforts of that little Sergeant. Oh yes, I almost forgot. Leon was none other than Leon Wagner who spent many a happy time in the big leagues and had his best years with Cleveland where he hit 39 home runs one year.

It seems that once basic training was over and his time in the service was past, the next year he was seen in St. Louis at a night ballgame. He had been brought up from the minors by the San Francisco Giants and I don't believe he was sent back down til his career was over. Quite a guy and where ever you are "Daddy Wags" we wish you well.

Houle joins Chippewas

Former Belleville High all-around athlete Laura Houle is presently in a Central Michigan University softball uniform.

A 1980 graduate from Belleville where Houle was named to the all Suburban 8 Conference teams in basketball in 1977, '78 and '79, she was an all-state honorable mention choice and also an all-leaguer as a third baseman in softball.

Miss Houle received a basketball scholarship to play for Henry Ford Community College where she competed in basketball and softball.

Glenn bats silenced as Rockets drop 3

It certainly was not the weekend that Coach Norm Hoenes nor members of his Westland John Glenn Rockets' baseball team had envisioned.

They certainly had not foreseen holding Northwest Conference rival Redford Union hitless for four innings, then succumbing, 5-1.

And who would have thought they would garner only 11 hits in Saturday's doubleheader against Ypsilanti and lose twice, 4-1 and 3-1?

But these 15 young men found where they stand, and with 16 games left on the 1983 schedule, it is definitely not time to panic.

"We'll start hitting," said Hoenes. "A few games under our belt we'll start to jell. It'll be a tough league this year. We're not through yet."

The weather has played havoc with the Rockets' schedule this season. Glenn has been rained out of four games this spring and probably had them feeling like the St. Louis Cardinals who had gone nearly a week without playing.

"The rainouts haven't really effected us because everyone is in the same boat," said Hoenes.

On Friday afternoon, the Rockets traveled to Redford Union to play their first league game. The Panthers, considered by many to be the favorites in the Northwest Suburban League race, have all their starters back from last year's squad.

But one couldn't tell it by the time the fourth inning rolled around. Rocket starting pitcher Steve Jaskolski, who had pitched three hitless innings the previous Saturday, continued his masterful pitching with four more hitless innings. He fanned six of the 13 batters he faced in that stretch on Friday.

But the Rockets' bats were being silenced by RU's pitching as they were shut out on only 3 hits and got excellent support from their defense to thwart any Rockets' offensive effort.

Both teams finally broke through for runs in the fifth inning. Consecutive singles by Mike Lentine (who had 3 hits on the day), Dennis Lambert and Tim Filary put the Rockets ahead, 1-0. With the way Jaskolski was pitching, the Rockets felt they had the one run they needed.

But the roof fell in on Glenn in the bottom of the inning. The Panthers gathered six hits in the inning to score four runs for a 4-1 lead. Relief pitcher Donn Wolfe came out of the bullpen and extricated his teammates out of the inning. The Panthers added an insurance tally in the sixth inning for the final 5-1 margin.

Coach Norm Hoenes was disappointed in the loss but certainly not in the way his pitchers looked for most of the game.

"Jaskolski did a fantastic job for the first five innings. He had great control. All of a sudden he lost it and the curve ball just went flat and it was all over."

Less than 24 hours later, the Rockets returned to the diamond to do battle with the Ypsilanti Braves.

Wolfe started on the hill for the Rockets and pitched himself out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning. He has Steve Jaskolski and Chris Merandi to thank for that as the two combined to throw out an Ypsi baserunner at third. For Jaskolski, it was the first of two assists on the day as he later threw out a runner at the plate.

The game was scoreless until the third inning when Ypsi tallied two runs on a miscue by the Rockets and a single by Braves' catcher Jeff Christiansen.

Glenn cut the lead to 3-1 in the fifth inning and might have had more had not Ypsi starting pitcher, Dave Rukkila, gotten tough. Filary and Jaskolski led off the inning with singles. After a strikeout, center fielder Mike Baydarian grounded out to get the run home.

Ypsi added a run in the seventh inning to up their lead to 4-1.

Unfortunately, for the Rockets,

Rukkila retired the final nine batters and Ypsi had the first game win, 4-1.

The nightcap saw more excellent pitching from both sides as neither showed any inclination to give up runs. Jeff Nieman started for the Rockets and held the Braves scoreless for the 5½ innings he pitched, allowed only 3 hits.

Coach Hoenes was pleased with his pitching saying, "Our pitching was good. All four pitchers in the doubleheader looked real good. Jensen did a good job and so did Nieman. It was our defense that left me a little unhappy."

Meanwhile the Rockets took a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning when Lambert singled, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Bill Purdue, who came into the game to replace an injured Cass Simpson, knocked in the run with a sacrifice fly.

Later, in the fifth, they had a chance to break open the game when they had the bases loaded and failed to score. But Ypsi's pitcher bailed himself out of the jam and that seemed to fire up the Braves.

In the seventh, Ypsi bunched four hits and three walks to score their three runs and take the second game, 3-1.

The Rockets, as well as their coach, were extremely disappointed with their performance but they have no time to mope with two tough league rivals, Garden City and Thurston, coming up this week.

"We'll find out how good both these teams are this week and how good we are," said Hoenes. "Both teams are powerhouses and we're in for a real tough team. But four losses could still win the league. These are key games for us."

Belleville playing softball like a state champ

This is the year Coach Peggy Curtis and the Belleville Tigers may have been waiting for. With an abundance of talent and one of the finest pitchers in the state in Judy Wisniewski, the Tigers just could have a state championship softball team this season. "We do have some potentially fine talent on this year's club," said Coach Curtis who is entering her sixth season as the Belleville coach.

"But you never know what can happen. You have to continuously be on your toes to win." Belleville, ranked among the top 10 teams and as high as No. 3 by many, has an impressive 8-1 record, losing to Ann Arbor Huron in the nightcap of a doubleheader last Saturday. The Tigers dropped an 8-4 decision with Sandy Mattson taking the loss after tossing a nine-hitter, striking out two and walking five. Huron rallied for five runs in the fifth to seal the victory. The Tigers wasted Jill Pence's two hits and Debbie Stull's two-run double. In the opening game, Wisniewski put down the River Rats 3-1 as she fired a four-hitter, struck out three and walked only one. The Tigers supplied their pitcher with all the runs she needed in the sixth when Debbie Summer was safe on an error, advanced to second on Kim Thick's single. After Debbie Stull was intentionally walked, Michelle LaManche doubled in two runs and Mattson drove in the final one.

Belleville begin the 1983 campaign with a 2-1 victory over Wayne Memorial then turned back always-tough Livonia Bentley, 7-2, and blanked John Glenn 4-0 and 9-7 in a doubleheader before routing Fordson's Tractors 11-5. The Tigers also destroyed Lincoln Park 10-0 and 1-0 before taking on Huron.

Wisniewski has been phenomenal on the mound this season as she has piled up an .868 earned run average.

After hosting Romulus Tuesday night, Belleville launches its final Suburban 8 Conference campaign with Trenton at home on Friday. They'll greet Dearborn St. Alphonsus for a twin bill on Saturday.

Belleville is scheduled to compete in the newly-formed Wolverine A Conference next year.

Romulus softballers make it five straight victories

This could be Romulus High's softball year. And, so far Coach Fred Coleman and his Eagles have proven it is. With all-around depth, Romulus had piled up an untarnished 5-0 record, turning back Willow Run, 8-7, Oak Park 19-0, Clarenceville, 13-2, and sweeping a pair from neighboring New Boston 10-7 and 9-7. But, last night's confrontation with arch-rival, Belleville, could just tell Coleman what his team is made up. Belleville, 8-1 on the season, is considered to be one of the finest teams in the state this year. "They're ranked in the top five this year," Coleman said, "and you don't get that kind of recognition this early in the year unless you have the players. They're good." Romulus launched the season last week with an 8-7 victory over the Flyers of Willow Run. "Rocky" Patterson struck out three and came into the battle to relieve starter Lori Summerfield who left the mound with the score tied at 5-all after five innings to earn credit for the victory. The Eagles chalked up the victory with a last-of-the-seventh victory with a last-of-the-seventh rally as Myra Zamora singled in two led and Stephanie Laymon, who was safe on an error, racing home with the decisive tallies.

Patterson tossed a two-hitter as Romulus humbled Oak Park 19-0. She notched eight strikeouts and walked three and saw her bid for a no-hitter dissipate when Rhonda Slaughter connected for a fourth inning double. Joan Wolf got the other Oak Park hit.

Blair led the Eagles assault as she hammered a homer and two other hits in four at bats.

Clarenceville also was no match for Romulus and Summerfield who two-hit her rivals. She fanned six and walked an equal number. Summerfield helped her cause with a pair of hits and two RBIs while Margaret Savage had three hits and five RBIs and Blair came through with a perfect three for three.

In sweeping a pair from Huron, Patterson earned a 10-7 decision as she whiffed eight and walked four in a five-hit pitching performance. Loser Missy McLeod fanned two and walked two, but had her problems with Blair who drilled three hits and also drove in three runs. Lisa Hoth and Kim Doss split four hits.

Mira Zamora paced the Eagles in the nightcap as she carded three hits and one RBI while teammate Tammy Kushner connected for three for three.

Swafford gets a taste of what 'big time' bowling is all about Keith Swafford, a 23-year-old laid off auto worker from Ypsilanti, has earned a spot in the 1983 Firestone Pro-Am Bowling Tournament in Akron, Ohio.

Swafford's 650 series topped a field of 20 finalists in a rolloff held recently at the Thunderbird Lanes, in Troy. The finalists were the top men and women bowlers who participated in a charity tournament benefiting the Boys and Girls Clubs of Metro Detroit held in 11 bowling centers throughout the metro area.

Swafford represented Fiesta Lanes in Westland, and qualified for the rolloff with a 761 series. "I've been bowling really well these past few months," he said. "In fact, in the last month alone, I've had three 700-plus series."

An avid bowler since 1968, Swafford has participated in a number of local tournaments, and last year, won the Mid-States Masters tourney in Saginaw, Michigan.

"It's a real thrill to know that I'll be competing in the Firestone Pro-Am this year," he said. "Regardless of how I bowl, just the opportunity to be among so many of the greats from around the country will make it a very special time for me. My mother is also in the hospital recuperating from an operation, and this news should sure make her feel better," he added.

In addition to his entry in the Firestone tournament, Swafford receives a check to cover travel and lodging expenses, a PBA commemorative and gift certificate, and two tickets to the Firestone Tournament of Champions.

The prizes were made available to the Boys & Girls Clubs of Metro Detroit for the benefit tournament by the Greater Akron chapter of the Bowling Proprietors Association of America, and the Professional Bowlers Association, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year.

More stats on Nigg

In last week's Associated Newspapers' wrap-up of the 1983 All-Area wrestling team, some of the statistics about Belleville High's representative, Brock Nigg, were inadvertently left out.

Nigg, 17, a senior finished sixth in the state in the 132 pound class and sported a 36-9-2 record. He was a member of the varsity wrestling team for the past three years and he also was a two-time Class A district champ as well as a two-time Suburban 8 Conference champ.

Brock was injured in his junior year, but came back and qualified out of the regionals in the senior season to earn a sixth place state medal.

Romulus softball sign-up

Softball teams wishing to compete in the Romulus Parks and Recreation adult league this summer should contact Dennis Davidson, recreation director.

There are only a few openings remaining in the league, according to Davidson; one on the men's Class A Division residents' league and also one in the men's Sunday morning league.

Two spots are available in the women's Class A Division. Also, Romulus softballers who wish to play in the youth softball league should contact the recreation offices. There is a $10 registration fee and registration will close on May 31.

For further information, telephone 941-0666.

Children must be warned about strangers

Crime resistance is really 'kids stuff'

(EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the third in a series of articles written by Cathy Horste, Van Buren Township Crime Prevention Officer and Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs' Crime Reduction Chairman. The series is aimed at crime prevention.)

By CATHY HORSTE

Crime resistance really IS kid stuff, and nothing is more valuable to us than our children. Warm summer weather is not far off, and during the summer months, children often wander out from under mother's watchful eye.

Let's insulate our children from criminal danger as much as possible by reminding them now of these basic rules:

- The old rule about never taking candy from a stranger is still a good rule. Tell your children not to take candy, a ride, or even a walk with a stranger, and also tell them why!

- Tell them never to admit to being home alone — on the telephone or to someone at the door.
- Give the school instructions only to release your children to the people you have designated in writing.
- Locate and point out "block parent" or similar homes in your neighborhood and along the path to school. Explain the meaning of such refuges. If your neighborhood doesn't have "block parents" get busy and organize.

- Select one or two trusted neighbors who will provide emergency shelter should your child come home when you are unexpectedly gone. Offer to do the same for those neighbors.
- Instruct your children to look out for each other, and to tell you when something unusual or suspicious occurs.

- Report suspicious individuals or vehicles lurking in areas near children to the police promptly. If a vehicle is involved, get the license plate number.
- Do not hesitate to notify the police if you think a child needs assistance of any kind.

Feeling the need to protect our children is a normal part of loving them, and crime resistance is part of protecting them. Don't throw this message away... keep it where you will see it, or pass it along to other parents.

For more information on this or other crime reduction methods, contact Officer Cathy Horste, Van Buren Township Detective Bureau, at 699-2001.

Comments matter to postal employees

Postal customers have a direct line to their postmasters and to top postal officials when they use a Consumer Service Card, available at every post office and from letter carriers.

The Postal Service encourages customers to use the cards to report service problems or to make suggestions about their mail service.

Postmaster Patrick

J. Tobin of Belleville stressed the importance the Postal Service places on customers' comments.

"The Postal Service touches everyone's life almost every day," he said. "We want to make sure that daily interaction is as positive as we can make it. Customer comments on the Consumer Service Card help us to identify problem areas and to correct them.

"Of course, they can be used to comment positively on postal people and the Postal Service too," Tobin added.

Customers completing cards are asked to keep the original copy and mail the remaining copies to their postmaster. Postmasters are required to respond promptly to all consumers who submit cards to their offices.

After responding to the consumer, the Postmaster files one copy of the card for future reference and sends the remaining copies up the line. Analysis of the data on the cards provides postal management with information for improving postal services and products.

"Customer reports of delivery errors help the Postal Service identify some of the causes of misdelivery and to take the steps necessary to improve the accuracy of deliveries across the nation," Tobin said.

Tobin said comments regarding return receipts for registered and certified mail led the Postal Service to revise its procedures in these areas. Among other changes, customers now can receive duplicate receipts upon request.

Consumer Service Cards ask customers to check blocks that identify their comment as an inquiry, suggestion or complaint. Customers also are asked to specify whether they wish to discuss service hours, postal personnel, or delayed, damaged or misdelivered mail. Several lines follow for specific comments.

"Customers can mail the cards to us, postage paid, or drop them off at their local post office," Postmaster Tobin said. "We try to make it convenient for consumers to present their views so we can serve them more effectively and more efficiently."

Speech treatment offered during summer to children

For children with speech and language problems, summer vacation can mean an interruption in their speech treatment. Annapolis Hospital provides a Summer Speech Clinic each year to help children improve and maintain the progress they have made during the school year.

This year's 8 week clinic will be held from June 20 - August 12.

The program is open to pre-school and school age children. Sessions will be held at the hospital two to three times a week depending upon the individual child's needs. Referrals may be made by school speech pathologists, physicians and parents by calling 722-4400, extension 246 or 273, by June 1.

After a child is referred to the program, an evaluation questionnaire will be given to the child's school therapist. Based on the questionnaire an assessment of the child's needs will be done and treatment scheduled.

There is a reduced fee involved, which is due in one payment at the start of treatment.

"The point of the Summer Speech Clinic is that children benefit from consistent treatment," said Dr. Betty Jones, Speech and Language Supervisor at Annapolis.

"When the schools break for summer, many children must interrupt their treatment. That gap sometimes makes it difficult for a child to maintain the progress achieved during the school year.

"During previous clinics we've treated children for stuttering, misarticulation, voice and language problems. These problems respond to treatment, but it requires intensive work from both the child and the therapist."

The clinic utilizes staff speech pathologists at Annapolis who provide intensive individual or small group treatment. Upon the parent's request a report on the child's progress can be sent to the school speech pathologist.
